U. S. Acts Quickly to Protect Americans in China

ATTACKS FROM COMMUNISTS FEARED IN SOUTHERN AREA

U. S. S. PILLSBURY ORDERED TO FOOCHOW ON CHINESE COAST

MISSIONARIES ASSEMBLE IN INTERIOR, READ TO EVACUATE

Peiping, China, June 10. — (U.P.) — United States authorities acted today to protect American lives and property from possible attacks by Chinese communists in the south.

The U. S. S. Pillsbury was ordered to Foochow, on the coast in southern China. The destroyer is attached to the American fleet o nduty in Asiatic waters.

The dispatch of the Pillsbury was described as a precautionary measure, indicating American authorities feared communist uprisings might result in a renewed attack on Foochow, a treaty port of Fukien province, with a population of 1,000,000.

Missionaries were reported assembled in the interior of south-central China, long menaced by roving bands of alleged Chinese communists. The missionaries were said to be ready to evacuate should the communists attack.

The situation apparently has taken a turn for the worse, necessitating the presence of an American warship in southern waters. Foochow has been menaced by communist forces in the last 18 months, and a renewal of "red" uprisings has been indicated in dispatches from the south.

Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the harassed central government at Nanking, announced he is leaving for Kiangsi province, south of the Yangtze river, seat of frequent communist revolts.

Tokio, June 10.—General Hey Ingchin, minister of war for the Chinese national government, was attacked and seriously wounded at Nancheng yesterday by an asserted communist bandit, according to word received at government offices today.

News of the attack on the Chinese official came from Tokio, presumably because of censorship laid down by the Chinese government in its campaign against revolutionary movements.

The closings today were laid to heavy withdrawals coincident with the unrest which developed over the week end with three big mergers and the other closings. The closings tied up approximately $23,000,000 in deposits.

'BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB' DOES NOT FIT CHORUS GIRLS

New York, June 10.—(U.P.)—The expression of "beautiful but dumb," so often applied to Broadway chorus girls, is highly inaccurate, according to Albert E. Wiggam, who has recently made a survey into the accuracy of popular beliefs.

Writing in the June Cosmopolitan, he said that Dr. David Weschesler, a psychologist, has examined a number of chorus girls on the army intelligence test and found their rating at 128 as compared with 61 for soldiers, 75 for actors, 86 for businessmen, 130 for college women and 127 for college men.

ECONOMISTS IN DIFFERENT VIEWS ON CROP REPORT

FIND BOTH SATISFYING AND DISCOURAGING ELEMENTS IN STATEMENT

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT SURVEYS OUTLOOK AS OF JUNE 1

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 10.—Economists who consider agriculture as an index of business prospects found today both satisfying and discouraging elements in the report of conditions issued by the agrciulture department based on June 1 outlook.

Some government financial leaders hold the theory that a good crop this year, whatever the prices may be, will afford stimulation by opening up credit which, if carried on into the winter, will reflect favorably on the general business situation. Agriculture, they say, may lead the way out of the depression.

Agriculture generally, with some few exceptions, suffered slight setbacks during May due to various conditions, including deficient rainfall in most of the central and western states, a drought condition in California, Montana and the Dakotas, late frosts through the north central states, and cutworm damage.

The wheat crop this year is estimated between 850,000,000 and 860,000,000 bushels, both winter and spring wheat, about the same as last year, when the crop totalled 850,000,000 bushels.

This large crop leaves farmers still with the surplus problem before them, and this year the farm board is not preparing to withdraw wheat from the market as it did last year. The world wheat outlook, with Russia planting 4,000,000 more acres in spring wheat than last year, is no better for export.

Farmers, the report shows, have not heeded the campaign of the farm board for reduction of acreage, the acreage in spring wheat being 4.7 higher than last year and with a record crop of 649,115,000 bushels estimated, compared with 604,337,000 last year.

Condition of barley is the lowest on record, tame hay crops are below average, wild hay crops extremely poor and pasturage poor. Citrus fruit prospects also declined more than usual during May. Rye prospects declined also.

On the other hand, lagre crops of peaches and apples are indicated, and potatoes will have a good yield. The total peach crop, it appears, will be 46 per cent greater than in 1930. The oats crop is in good shape everywhere except in the drought area.

Generally, the year should be a fair one, it appears, unless the drought persists in its present bounds or extends to other areas, and the crop season may produce the stimulation hoped for by officials.

Rail Passenger Travel Uses School Buses to Bridge Mobridge Cavein

Mobridge, S. D., June 9.—(U.P.)—Passengers traveling on transcontinental trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad today passed through Mobridge in school buses as the result of a cavein on the main line near here.

Approximately 50 feet of land under the main line of the road gave way and tied up all east and west bound traffic on this division. Officials said it would be at least 12 hours before service could be restored.

School buses were called into use to transfer passengers and baggage between the east and west bound trains, which were backed to switches that would allow them to turn about.

Engineers said an underground spring of water had caused the washout.

State Receives Bid to Prospect For Iron Ore on 80 Acres Northeast of Brainerd

IF ORE FOUND IT MEANS EXTENSION OF CUYUNA RANGE

BID IS ENTERED BY HOLMAN I. PEARL, CROSBY MINING ENGINEER

MINIMUM LEGAL BID 12c TON ON 25 PER CENT ORE; PEARL BID 12.02c

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—The state executive council today received a bid for a permit to prospect for iron ore on an 80 acre tract of state owned land northeast of Brainerd.

The petition said that if ore was found, it may result in the extension of the Cuyuna Range. The bid entered by Holman I. Pearl, Crosby, a mining engineer, was the only one before the council today.

The minimum legal bid is 12 cents a ton on 25 per cent ore with a five cent increase on each one per cent increase in ore content. Pearl's bid was 12.02 cents.

The exact location of the land to be prospected was given as eight miles northeast of Brainerd.

SUNKEN SUBMARINE IS LOCATED OFF WEIHAIWEI, CHINA

EFFORTS TO RAISE ENGLISH SUB POSEIDON NOW PROCEEDING

WAS ON SURFACE WHEN SHE COLLIDED WITH CHINESE MERCHANT SHIP

London, June 10. — (U.P.) — An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hongkong today said it had been officially announced the Poseidon, sunken British submarine, had been located off Weihaiwei, northern China.

Efforts to raise the submarine were proceeding, the dispatch said. The Poseidon sank after a collision yesterday with the Yuta, a Chinese merchant ship.

Reports that the Poseidon was on the surface at the time of the disaster were confirmed, the dispatch said.

It was revealed that six of the survivors escaped in two groups by the Davis submarine escape apparatus. The first reached the surface in 1.35 minutes and the second in 1.95 minutes, the report said, and were picked up by warships on the scene.

Five officers and 30 men were reported saved, but two died of injuries. Eighteen were reported missing. It was believed the missing men were trapped in a compartment.

Unofficially, it was hoped that the Poseidon could be raised because it sank in comparatively shallow water. The submarine was understood to be lying on the bottom in 20 fathoms.

Desperate rescue efforts which began almost immediately after the collision shortly after noon yesterday continued through the night.

6-YEAR BOY KILLS 7-YEAR BROTHER

YORK, PENNSYLVANIA, LADS ARGUED OVER HANDFUL OF CHECKERS

York, Pa., June 10—(U.P.)—A six-year-old boy, William Trone, today shot and killed his seven-year-old brother, Charles, after the two had argued over a handful of checkers.

Another brother, George, 9, witnessed the shooting.

The two boys, George told police, were in bed and started quarreling over possession of the checkers. William finally climbed out of bed, went to an adjoining room and obtained a 12-gauge shotgun, returned and fired at Charles. The elder brother's face was blown away.

William then returned and put the gun in place, George said. Parents of the children were not at home.

SENATOR SCHALL RENEWS ATTACK ON ATTY. GEN. MITCHELL

CITES INQUIRIES TO WHICH HE HAS RECEIVED NO REPLY

RELATE TO APPOINTMENT OF FORMER MEMBERS MITCHELL'S LAW FIRM

Washington, June 10.—(U.P.)—Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, today renewed his attack on Atty. Gen. Mitchell, begun when Mitchell, himself from Minnesota, refused to approve Schall's nominee for a federal judgeship.

Schall cited several inquiries he directed at the attorney general four months ago to which he said he had received no reply.

The inquiries all related to the appointment by the justice department of former members of Mitchell's law firm to represent the government in various capacities. The questions were:

"Was Pierce Butler Jr. (son of the supreme court justice who is also from Minnesota) a member of your law firm? Appointed as special counsel in the Barnett Indian cases? If not, to what work was he assigned?

"Was C. W. Bunn, the father of a member of your firm, appointed special counsel in the Connecticut boundary lines case?

"Was M. J. Doherty, a former partner, appointed as special counsel in the wire tapping cases?

"Was W. R. Rumble, a former partner, appointed as special counsel in any matters for the government since you have been solicitor general or attorney general?"

In addition Schall asked to be informed what services the persons mentioned rendered the government and what fee they received.

FARMERS' STAND ON RURAL PROBLEMS BEING CONSIDERED

GOV. OLSON CALLS A SECRET MEETING OF 25 AGRICULTURAL LEADERS

NO ADVANCE NOTICE OF SESSION FORTHCOMING FROM GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—The farmers' position on rural problems confronting the state government were being drawn up today for presentation to Governor Floyd B. Olson, the state's first farmer-labor executive.

The governor called a secret meeting of 25 agricultural leaders yesterday afternoon to discuss the agricultural viewpoint of his administration. No advance notice of the session had been forthcoming from the governor's office.

The governor was understood to have told the men that the agricultural problem was a serious one demanding their concerted attention and the aid of his administration. He said he was calling on the farmer leaders themselves to work out a comprehensive program and submit it to him.

If a special session of the state legislature is called to settle the tangles of reapportionment or metropolitan drainage and sewage disposal, the governor was understood to feel that he should have a complete program for submission to the law makers.

R. A. Trovatten, state commissioner of agriculture, outlined a program which included the following points:

1. A graduated income tax.
2. Governmental regulation of prices and profits.
3. Continued trial of the farm board.
4. Federal aid in helping the farmers refinance their loans and mortgages at a low interest charge.

The fire destroyed the plant at an estimated loss of $30,000. Christianson was working over the barrel of saltpeter when it ignited. The first flareup burned his head and hands.

MINNEAPOLIS HAS ITS FIRST FARMER LABOR EXECUTIVE

WILLIAM A. ANDERSON, MAYOR-ELECT, TO TRY OUT HIS NEW THEORIES

57-YEAR-OLD ATTORNEY IS NO NOVICE IN POLITICS, PLANS SANE ADMINISTRATION

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—Wm. A. Anderson, who reads economic textbooks in preference to novels, will have his first chance to practice his theories when he becomes Minneapolis' first farmer-labor mayor next month.

Although several times a candidate of political offices, the 57-year-old attorney had never held a major executive position. However, he is no novice in politics, being associated with the now defunct Nonpartisan League in the Dakotas and the farmer-labor party in Minnesota. Last year he was state chairman of the farmer-labor central committee which elected Floyd B. Olson as Mninesota's governor.

Anderson twice lost campaigns for the state supreme court.

"I propose a sane handling of city affairs as my administration's aim," Anderson said of his plans for taking office July 6. "A sane and just enforcement of the law will be as complete as humanly possible in Minneapolis."

He said a Minneapolis mayor could not do much regarding unemployment because of restriction of powers but he said he would recommend that the city undertake necessary improvements.

"I will not recommend that work be started solely because it would offer men jobs," the mayor-elect said. "There will be no unnecessary or useless work. I don't approve of that even in a time of depression such as this."

There is not much a single city or state can do to relieve the depression, the mayor-elect believes. Economic conditions far beyond the scope of the city or state are responsible, he said.

"Minneapolis, however, is fortunate in having a municipal sewage disposal plant, city docks and other improvements coming up this summer," Anderson said. "The voters approved a tax levy to build the sewage plant on the same ballots in which they chose their new chief executive."

Political relief in the present depression will have little effect, Anderson believes. He said neither of the two old parties have the right solution to offer.

"Both republicans and democrats are split on such issues as the tariff," he said. "There is no agreement between the various factions of either party. I believe there should be a new alignment of parties on real, live issues."

"The present economic crisis is due to maladjustment of production and distribution," Anderson said. "Tariff walls have been erected which hamper foreign trade. Trading with other nations is bargaining. For our goods, we accept either gold or products. With the high tariff we can't accept other countries' goods and France is the only nation with a gold reserve sufficient to barter with us. They apparently don't choose to do that, however. All of these factors have contributed to the depression."

Anderson, the first labor mayor in Minneapolis since 1924, was drafted to oppose two men who had held that office. Monday he defeated George E. Leach, who was attempting a comeback after being mayor for three terms after he had served as a major during the world war. The present incumbent, W. F. Kunze, was eliminated in the primary election last month.

His wife, a white-haired woman of 55, said that she had not wanted him to be a candidate for mayor because she was afraid he would have to leave his family circle if he won. Then, she said, he promised the family would come first and she consented to his being drafted.

"We'll have to sacrifice him a bit, I guess," she lamented for the three other members of the family.

Their two adopted children, Wilbur Austin, 19, who has just finished his first year at the University of Minnesota, and Mrs. Clara Johnson, were among Anderson's most enthusiastic supporters.

The mild-mannered man who will be Minneapolis' next mayor was born in Adams county, Wisconsin, 57 years ago. He taught school for a number of years in country schools in Wisconsin. It was there that he met the woman who became his wife. They were married in 1897.

Anderson gave up his teaching job to work as timekeeper for a Minnesota paper mill. Then he worked for a grain elevator. After a time he was given charge of a line of elevators, then he became sales manager of a milling concern. Coming to Minneapolis in 1909, he organized a law class for a score of fellow workers who found they could not attend the day law classes at the University of Minnesota. Studying during his spare time, Anderson completed his legal preparation in five years and became a lawyer.

Then, as Anderson describes it, he "acquired a lawyer's business and a lawyer's troubles."

Once Anderson was defeated as city alderman because he was considered too "dry." He was defeated for the state supreme court in 1922 and 1924. In 1926 he was chosen state farmer-labor chairman and again last year he held the same post.

$8,600,000 WORTH ROAD SECURITIES TO BE SUBMITTED

BONDS TO BE USED TO RETIRE $2,000,000 COUNTY HIGHWAY BONDS

BALANCE, $6,600,000, TO BE USED FOR GENERAL HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—The state highway bond board today called for bids on $8,600,000 worth of highway securities to be submitted June 23.

The bonds, bearing four per cent interest, will be used to retire about $2,000,000 worth of county highway bonds assumed by the state and the balance of the issue will be used for general highway construction work.

The board which called for the bids is composed of Julius A. Schmahl, state treasurer; Stafford King, state auditor, and Charles M. Babcock, highway commissioner.

Although the maximum interest is set at four per cent, Schmahl said that the rate probably would be less. The last issue of highway bonds, sold last November, yield four and one-half per cent.

The bond issue will be retired as follows: of the $2,000,000 county bonds, $400,000 will be paid off in 1943, $600,000 in 1944, and $1,000,000 in 1945 and the other $6,600,000 will be retired at the rate of $1,000,000 a year from 1941 to 1946 with the balance settled in 1947.

The remaining $1,400,000 of the $10,000,00 annual bond issue limit set by the state constitution wil lbe used to pay off Ramsey and Hennepin counties to reimburse them for funds expended on state highways. These were not included in the bond issue because exact figures showing what amounts were due each county were not at hand, Schmahl said.

Bids on this issue, to be dated July 15, will be called for within a week, it was expected. The issue will mature half in 1939 and the balance in 1940.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—The state investment board today granted a $150,000 loan to the state office building commission to purchase land for the new $1,500,000 state office building.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—State Purchasing Agent H. V. Austin today announced that bids will be advertised this week for the $765,000 Moorhead state teachers college building.

At the same time bids will be asked for a new building for the state school for the feeble minded at Faribault, Austin said.

Bids on the Moorhead building will be opened June 30 at 2 P. M., Austin said. On the following day, July 1, the bids on the Faribault building will be opened.

TENNESSEE RETAINS 'ANTI-EVOLUTION' LAW

Nashville, Tenn., June 10.—(U.P.)—Arguments in the famous Dayton, Tenn., evolution trial echoed in the state house of representatives today, during a debate that was climaxed by a vote of 58 to 14 to retain the law prohibiting teaching of the evolution theory in public schools.

The vote came on a bill which would repeal the "anti-evolution" law, and that described it as an indictment of the intelligence of citizens of Tennessee.

Efforts to raise the submarine were proceeding, the dispatch said. The Poseidon sank after a collision yesterday with the Yuta, a Chinese merchant ship.

Reports that the Poseidon was on the surface at the time of the disaster were confirmed, the dispatch said.

It was revealed that six of the survivors escaped in two groups by the Davis submarine escape apparatus. The first reached the surface in 1.35 minutes and the second in 1.95 minutes, the report said, and were picked up by warships on the scene.

Five officers and 30 men were reported saved, but two died of injuries. Eighteen were reported missing. It was believed the missing men were trapped in a compartment.

Unofficially, it was hoped that the Poseidon could be raised because it sank in comparatively shallow water. The submarine was understood to be lying on the bottom in 20 fathoms.

Desperate rescue efforts which began almost immediately after the collision shortly after noon yesterday continued through the night.

Another brother, George, 9, witnessed the shooting.

The two boys, George told police, were in bed and started quarreling over possession of the checkers. William finally climbed out of bed, went to an adjoining room and obtained a 12-gauge shotgun, returned and fired at Charles. The elder brother's face was blown away.

William then returned and put the gun in place, George said. Parents of the children were not at home.

SENATOR SCHALL RENEWS ATTACK ON ATTY. GEN. MITCHELL

CITES INQUIRIES TO WHICH HE HAS RECEIVED NO REPLY

RELATE TO APPOINTMENT OF FORMER MEMBERS MITCHELL'S LAW FIRM

Washington, June 10.—(U.P.)—Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, today renewed his attack on Atty. Gen. Mitchell, begun when Mitchell, himself from Minnesota, refused to approve Schall's nominee for a federal judgeship.

Schall cited several inquiries he directed at the attorney general four months ago to which he said he had received no reply.

The inquiries all related to the appointment by the justice department of former members of Mitchell's law firm to represent the government in various capacities. The questions were:

"Was Pierce Butler Jr. (son of the supreme court justice who is also from Minnesota) a member of your law firm? Appointed as special counsel in the Barnett Indian cases? If not, to what work was he assigned?

"Was C. W. Bunn, the father of a member of your firm, appointed special counsel in the Connecticut boundary lines case?

"Was M. J. Doherty, a former partner, appointed as special counsel in the wire tapping cases?

"Was W. R. Rumble, a former partner, appointed as special counsel in any matters for the government since you have been solicitor general or attorney general?"

In addition Schall asked to be informed what services the persons mentioned rendered the government and what fee they received.

FARMERS' STAND ON RURAL PROBLEMS BEING CONSIDERED

GOV. OLSON CALLS A SECRET MEETING OF 25 AGRICULTURAL LEADERS

NO ADVANCE NOTICE OF SESSION FORTHCOMING FROM GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—The farmers' position on rural problems confronting the state government were being drawn up today for presentation to Governor Floyd B. Olson, the state's first farmer-labor executive.

The governor called a secret meeting of 25 agricultural leaders yesterday afternoon to discuss the agricultural viewpoint of his administration. No advance notice of the session had been forthcoming from the governor's office.

The governor was understood to have told the men that the agricultural problem was a serious one demanding their concerted attention and the aid of his administration. He said he was calling on the farmer leaders themselves to work out a comprehensive program and submit it to him.

If a special session of the state legislature is called to settle the tangles of reapportionment or metropolitan drainage and sewage disposal, the governor was understood to feel that he should have a complete program for submission to the law makers.

R. A. Trovatten, state commissioner of agriculture, outlined a program which included the following points:

1. A graduated income tax.
2. Governmental regulation of prices and profits.
3. Continued trial of the farm board.
4. Federal aid in helping the farmers refinance their loans and mortgages at a low interest charge.

MINNEAPOLIS HAS ITS FIRST FARMER LABOR EXECUTIVE

WILLIAM A. ANDERSON, MAYOR-ELECT, TO TRY OUT HIS NEW THEORIES

57-YEAR-OLD ATTORNEY IS NO NOVICE IN POLITICS, PLANS SANE ADMINISTRATION

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—Wm. A. Anderson, who reads economic textbooks in preference to novels, will have his first chance to practice his theories when he becomes Minneapolis' first farmer-labor mayor next month.

Although several times a candidate of political offices, the 57-year-old attorney had never held a major executive position. However, he is no novice in politics, being associated with the now defunct Nonpartisan League in the Dakotas and the farmer-labor party in Minnesota. Last year he was state chairman of the farmer-labor central committee which elected Floyd B. Olson as Mninesota's governor.

Anderson twice lost campaigns for the state supreme court.

"I propose a sane handling of city affairs as my administration's aim," Anderson said of his plans for taking office July 6. "A sane and just enforcement of the law will be as complete as humanly possible in Minneapolis."

He said a Minneapolis mayor could not do much regarding unemployment because of restriction of powers but he said he would recommend that the city undertake necessary improvements.

"I will not recommend that work be started solely because it would offer men jobs," the mayor-elect said. "There will be no unnecessary or useless work. I don't approve of that even in a time of depression such as this."

There is not much a single city or state can do to relieve the depression, the mayor-elect believes. Economic conditions far beyond the scope of the city or state are responsible, he said.

"Minneapolis, however, is fortunate in having a municipal sewage disposal plant, city docks and other improvements coming up this summer," Anderson said. "The voters approved a tax levy to build the sewage plant on the same ballots in which they chose their new chief executive."

Political relief in the present depression will have little effect, Anderson believes. He said neither of the two old parties have the right solution to offer.

"Both republicans and democrats are split on such issues as the tariff," he said. "There is no agreement between the various factions of either party. I believe there should be a new alignment of parties on real, live issues."

"The present economic crisis is due to maladjustment of production and distribution," Anderson said. "Tariff walls have been erected which hamper foreign trade. Trading with other nations is bargaining. For our goods, we accept either gold or products. With the high tariff we can't accept other countries' goods and France is the only nation with a gold reserve sufficient to barter with us. They apparently don't choose to do that, however. All of these factors have contributed to the depression."

Anderson, the first labor mayor in Minneapolis since 1924, was drafted to oppose two men who had held that office. Monday he defeated George E. Leach, who was attempting a comeback after being mayor for three terms after he had served as a major during the world war. The present incumbent, W. F. Kunze, was eliminated in the primary election last month.

His wife, a white-haired woman of 55, said that she had not wanted him to be a candidate for mayor because she was afraid he would have to leave his family circle if he won. Then, she said, he promised the family would come first and she consented to his being drafted.

"We'll have to sacrifice him a bit, I guess," she lamented for the three other members of the family.

Their two adopted children, Wilbur Austin, 19, who has just finished his first year at the University of Minnesota, and Mrs. Clara Johnson, were among Anderson's most enthusiastic supporters.

The mild-mannered man who will be Minneapolis' next mayor was born in Adams county, Wisconsin, 57 years ago. He taught school for a number of years in country schools in Wisconsin. It was there that he met the woman who became his wife. They were married in 1897.

Anderson gave up his teaching job to work as timekeeper for a Minnesota paper mill. Then he worked for a grain elevator. After a time he was given charge of a line of elevators, then he became sales manager of a milling concern. Coming to Minneapolis in 1909, he organized a law class for a score of fellow workers who found they could not attend the day law classes at the University of Minnesota. Studying during his spare time, Anderson completed his legal preparation in five years and became a lawyer.

Then, as Anderson describes it, he "acquired a lawyer's business and a lawyer's troubles."

Once Anderson was defeated as city alderman because he was considered too "dry." He was defeated for the state supreme court in 1922 and 1924. In 1926 he was chosen state farmer-labor chairman and again last year he held the same post.

$8,600,000 WORTH ROAD SECURITIES TO BE SUBMITTED

BONDS TO BE USED TO RETIRE $2,000,000 COUNTY HIGHWAY BONDS

BALANCE, $6,600,000, TO BE USED FOR GENERAL HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—The state highway bond board today called for bids on $8,600,000 worth of highway securities to be submitted June 23.

The bonds, bearing four per cent interest, will be used to retire about $2,000,000 worth of county highway bonds assumed by the state and the balance of the issue will be used for general highway construction work.

The board which called for the bids is composed of Julius A. Schmahl, state treasurer; Stafford King, state auditor, and Charles M. Babcock, highway commissioner.

Although the maximum interest is set at four per cent, Schmahl said that the rate probably would be less. The last issue of highway bonds, sold last November, yield four and one-half per cent.

The bond issue will be retired as follows: of the $2,000,000 county bonds, $400,000 will be paid off in 1943, $600,000 in 1944, and $1,000,000 in 1945 and the other $6,600,000 will be retired at the rate of $1,000,000 a year from 1941 to 1946 with the balance settled in 1947.

The remaining $1,400,000 of the $10,000,00 annual bond issue limit set by the state constitution wil lbe used to pay off Ramsey and Hennepin counties to reimburse them for funds expended on state highways. These were not included in the bond issue because exact figures showing what amounts were due each county were not at hand, Schmahl said.

Bids on this issue, to be dated July 15, will be called for within a week, it was expected. The issue will mature half in 1939 and the balance in 1940.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—The state investment board today granted a $150,000 loan to the state office building commission to purchase land for the new $1,500,000 state office building.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—State Purchasing Agent H. V. Austin today announced that bids will be advertised this week for the $765,000 Moorhead state teachers college building.

At the same time bids will be asked for a new building for the state school for the feeble minded at Faribault, Austin said.

Bids on the Moorhead building will be opened June 30 at 2 P. M., Austin said. On the following day, July 1, the bids on the Faribault building will be opened.

TENNESSEE RETAINS 'ANTI-EVOLUTION' LAW

Nashville, Tenn., June 10.—(U.P.)—Arguments in the famous Dayton, Tenn., evolution trial echoed in the state house of representatives today, during a debate that was climaxed by a vote of 58 to 14 to retain the law prohibiting teaching of the evolution theory in public schools.

The vote came on a bill which would repeal the "anti-evolution" law, and that described it as an indictment of the intelligence of citizens of Tennessee.

NEW HIGH RECORD FOR BIBLE CIRCULATION

New York, N. Y., June 10.—During 1930 the American Bible Society distributed Bibles, Testaments and Portions totalling 12,035,133, the largest distribution in any year in the Society since its organization in 1816 has annual report just published, the Society snice its organization in 1816 has distributed 228,234,048 volumes of Scriptures. The year 1930 was the sixth year in succession in which the distribution surpassed that of the preceding year. The Society's work of translation, publication, and distribuion occurred in 285 languages.

An encouraging statistical item is the increase by thirty-three percent in the circulation of complete Bibles in China. General Chang Chih-Kiang for the third time made a large personal contribution toward the sale, at a reduced price, of leather bound Bibles and Testaments, and for the distribution of these books to Chinese soldiers, theological students, young ministers, and personal friends.

A noteworthy pioneering translation work was inaugurated during the year by one of the Society's staff in Siam who, with his wife, began a three-year stay among the primitive Miao people in the hill country of northern Siam to study the Miao tongue for the purpose of Scripture translation.

The distribution during the year of 4,142 embossed volumes of Scriptures in Braille and other suitable systems to blind persons set a new record for Bible distribution in this form of Scripture.

FATHER LARKIN TO CELEBRATE MASS

Father Kiley, Aitkin, to Preach Sermon at Services Tomorrow at 10:30 A. M.

Father Harry J. Larkin, oldest son of Mrs. Margaret E. Larkin, 707 North Sixth Street, will celebrate his first solemn mass at 10:30 A. M. services tomorrow in the St. Francis Catholic church.

Father Phillip H. Kiley, J. C. D., of Aitkin, will preach the sermon.

Father Larkin, recently ordained, enumerates the following stages in the life of a candidate for the priesthood.

After the eighth grade there are nine years of study before the candidate begins, as it were, to realize his dream. Only after four years of high school, two years of college, three years in a major seminary is he admitted to tonsure. Tonsure is a preliminary step to Holy Orders. The word is taken from the Latin, meaning a cuting off. The bishop cuts off a portion of the candidate's hair, thereby signifying detachment from the world. Then, during the last three years of his course at the seminary, there are seven stages, but much shorter and happier than those mentioned in "As You Like It," which consider a man from cradle to grave.

The whole seven are indirectly, then directly connected with the Eucharist, the sustaining food of the spiritual life.

First there are the four minor orders:

1. Porter or Ostiary—whose principal duties are to open the door of the church and ring the bell.

2. Lector—who should read those things which he preaches from the Missal, Breviary, or Bible or read them to the one who preaches.

3. Exorcist—whose duty is to expel evil spirits from those whom they harrass.

4. Acolyte—who carries candles, lights the candles of the church, minister wine and water at the Eucharist.

Then, the three major orders:

1. Subdeacon—Subdeaconate brings the definite break with secular employments. It is the duty of the subdeacon to prepare water for ministry of the altar, to minister to the deacon, to wash the palls and corporals of the altar, and to present the Chalice and Paten for use in the Sacrifice.

2. Deacon—whose duty is to directly assist the celebrant at the Sacrifice of the Mass, also sometimes to Baptize and preach.

3. The priesthood is the last stage of all in this glad, "eventful story," with whose duties the laity are generally acquainted.

Parson Marries Three Pair in Same Airplane

Kansas City, Mo.—"I pronounce you man and wife," the Rev. Earl A. Blackman said recently to three young couples 1,500 feet in the air, aboard a tri-motored airplane.

It was the first triple wedding in the air there is any record of.

The principals in this triple wedding were Miss Mary Lee Merrill and Vincent Rapp, Miss Effie N. Campbell and Cecil J. Michael, and Miss Dorothy Ayers and Lee Haley. All except Michael live in Kansas City. Michael lives in Tulsa, Okla.

The men sat on one side of the plane and extended their hands across the aisle to their soon-to-be wives. In this fasion they answered "I do" to all of the age-old vows except the one which contained "obey." This the brides had asked to be changed to "honor."

RACKETEERING IN ANCESTORS LURES

Rich Woman Buys "Descent From Queen Elizabeth."

New York.—Rich Americans, especially women, have reached the stage where they crave ancestors, and to gratify this demand genealogists have sprung up in all parts of the country, writes Donald Lines Jacobus in the People, journal of the American Eugenics society. A rich woman will pay several thousand dollars to fish out a good string of ancestors, but unfortunately, since horse-thieves, village loafers and insignificant laborers do not appeal to rich people in the picture of their family tree, there are not a few racketeering genealogists who will delve deep into the past and pull forth the most charming array of ancestors imaginable. "One dealer in noble forebears had the effrontery," writes Mr. Jacobus, "to sell his client, a descent from Elizabeth, the 'Virgin Queen,' which pleased her immensely until she began to read a bit of English history. Mrs. Nouveau Riche wants to flaunt as aristocratic a pedigree as Mrs. Fatpurse bonsts, and proves an easy victim to the 'genealogist' who for a good fee professes to trace her ancestry to Charlemagne or Lady Godiva."

"Many false ancestral lines, obtained from fraudulent dealers, have been placed in print by innocent purchasers, and often they are accepted and reprinted by uncritical genealogical students," asserts this writer in the May issue of People. "The capable searcher has to maintain a constant alertness to detect such impostures when handling printed sources of information, which too often are sources of misinformation. The most ingenious of racketeers in ancestry are the commercial houses which have intruded their activities into the genealogical field. Some of these are publishing houses which care little for the accuracy of the matter they print so long as the product sells. Some corporations masquerade under deceptive titles as historical societies."

Many rich American women have an obsession to trace their ancestry to noble blood, and it is from these women that the ancestor racketeer gets fine pickings. "A few of the early colonial settlers derived from the lesser English gentry, and by painstaking work on their ancestry abroad, it is sometimes possible to prove a noble lineage for them—though it is difficult to understand why people consider such ancestry to be more noble or honorable than descent from the unfortunate serfs who all too often were oppressed by these same gentry. And when one has to trace a single line for 20 or 30 generations to acquire a connection with a brawling sprig of royalty who had his brother's eyes burned out some 800 years ago, the nobility of the lineage must have become somewhat diluted before reaching its present proud possessor."

Coeds Fenced Off in 1856

Co-educational colleges have not always permitted men and women students to mix freely, the Butler Collegian, student publication of Butler university, said, after pointing out a ruling of September 2, 1856, which ordered the university president to erect "certain fences for the separation of the groups for the use of the male and female members."

Halved for Transportation

During the World war large ships were cut in two to bring them from the Great lakes to the coast. The vessels were cut in two by means of an acetylene torch while in dry dock. The sections were then boarded and caiked, after which the dock was flooded and the sections were hauled apart and towed. The halves were later rejoined and made seaworthy.

BULK METHOD OF ROASTING COFFEE IS NOT EXACT

In Spite of Care It Is Difficult to Develop Uniform Flavor

It is virtually impossible to accurately roast coffee in bulk, because there is no exact way to determine when all of the batch is "done." One roast may be "high" and another "low," with the result that there is variation of flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this uncertainty, by inventing and perfecting a radically different process—Controlled Roasting. By automatic control, a stream of coffee passes continuously through the roaster a few pounds at a time. Positive control of the heat is maintained, with the result that every berry of the rare blend is roasted evenly—to the degree that insures a rich, uniform, full-bodied flavor in every pound.

No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros.' process exclusively.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in the vacuum can that keeps it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is extracted from the can and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary cans, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trademark—on the can.

NEW HIGH RECORD FOR BIBLE CIRCULATION

New York, N. Y., June 10.—During 1930 the American Bible Society distributed Bibles, Testaments and Portions totalling 12,035,133, the largest distribution in any year in the Society since its organization in 1816 has annual report just published, the Society snice its organization in 1816 has distributed 228,234,048 volumes of Scriptures. The year 1930 was the sixth year in succession in which the distribution surpassed that of the preceding year. The Society's work of translation, publication, and distribution occurred in 285 languages.

An encouraging statistical item is the increase by thirty-three percent in the circulation of complete Bibles in China. General Chang Chih-Kiang for the third time made a large personal contribution toward the sale, at a reduced price, of leather bound Bibles and Testaments, and for the distribution of these books to Chinese soldiers, theological students, young ministers, and personal friends.

A noteworthy pioneering translation work was inaugurated during the year by one of the Society's staff in Siam who, with his wife, began a three-year stay among the primitive Miao people in the hill country of northern Siam to study the Miao tongue for the purpose of Scripture translation.

The distribution during the year of 4,142 embossed volumes of Scriptures in Braille and other suitable systems to blind persons set a new record for Bible distribution in this form of Scripture.

FATHER LARKIN TO CELEBRATE MASS

Father Kiley, Aitkin, to Preach Sermon at Services Tomorrow at 10:30 A. M.

Father Harry J. Larkin, oldest son of Mrs. Margaret E. Larkin, 707 North Sixth Street, will celebrate his first solemn mass at 10:30 A. M. services tomorrow in the St. Francis Catholic church.

Father Phillip H. Kiley, J. C. D., of Aitkin, will preach the sermon.

Father Larkin, recently ordained, enumerates the following stages in the life of a candidate for the priesthood.

After the eighth grade there are nine years of study before the candidate begins, as it were, to realize his dream. Only after four years of high school, two years of college, three years in a major seminary is he admitted to tonsure. Tonsure is a preliminary step to Holy Orders. The word is taken from the Latin, meaning a cuting off. The bishop cuts off a portion of the candidate's hair, thereby signifying detachment from the world. Then, during the last three years of his course at the seminary, there are seven stages, but much shorter and happier than those mentioned in "As You Like It," which consider a man from cradle to grave.

The whole seven are indirectly, then directly connected with the Eucharist, the sustaining food of the spiritual life.

First there are the four minor orders:

1. Porter or Ostiary—whose principal duties are to open the door of the church and ring the bell.

2. Lector—who should read those things which he preaches from the Missal, Breviary, or Bible or read them to the one who preaches.

3. Exorcist—whose duty is to expel evil spirits from those whom they harrass.

4. Acolyte—who carries candles, lights the candles of the church, minister wine and water at the Eucharist.

Then, the three major orders:

1. Subdeacon—Subdeaconate brings the definite break with secular employments. It is the duty of the subdeacon to prepare water for ministry of the altar, to minister to the deacon, to wash the palls and corporals of the altar, and to present the Chalice and Paten for use in the Sacrifice.

2. Deacon—whose duty is to directly assist the celebrant at the Sacrifice of the Mass, also sometimes to Baptize and preach.

3. The priesthood is the last stage of all in this glad, "eventful story," with whose duties the laity are generally acquainted.

Employment Applications Scanned by Heads of Various Departments

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(U.P.)—Persons taking their employment applications direct to Governor Floyd B. Olson will have to have recommendations from the heads of departments in which they wish employment, the governor ruled today.

"Department heads are responsible for the conduct of their offices," Olson said, "and it is only fair that they should select theri own employes."

J. Clarke Coit is Named Head of Radio Makers

Chicago, June 10.—(U.P.)—J. Clarke Coit, Chicago, who entered the radio business less than two years ago, today was elected president of the National Radio Manufacturers' association, which has a membership of more than 25,000.

Coit, who began his career as a hardware dealer, in Omaha, Neb., was elected at the association's annual convention. He will direct the affairs of the radio industry for one year.

Parson Marries Three Pair in Same Airplane

Kansas City, Mo.—"I pronounce you man and wife," the Rev. Earl A. Blackman said recently to three young couples 1,500 feet in the air, aboard a tri-motored airplane.

It was the first triple wedding in the air there is any record of.

The principals in this triple wedding were Miss Mary Lee Merrill and Vincent Rapp, Miss Effie N. Campbell and Cecil J. Michael, and Miss Dorothy Ayers and Lee Haley. All except Michael live in Kansas City. Michael lives in Tulsa, Okla.

The men sat on one side of the plane and extended their hands across the aisle to their soon-to-be wives. In this fasion they answered "I do" to all of the age-old vows except the one which contained "obey." This the brides had asked to be changed to "honor."

Penitentiary Attractive So Man Decides to Stay

Santa Fe, N. M.—Appearing at the state penitentiary Ed Sweet told Warden Swope he would like to look the place over. So he paid the 25 cents fee.

"Pretty nice place," he remarked after he had been through. "Think I'll stay." Then he tipped the guard who showed him through.

"Stay?" the warden gasped.

"Sure," Sweet returned, drawing out commitment papers, explaining that he had been sentenced to a year for stealing tires.

Connecticut Woman Finds Right Man at Age of 70

Bridgeport, Conn.—It took Alice Hurd, seventy, years to find the right man but when she did, she promptly promised to marry him.

The "right one" was Wilbur J. Beardsley, sixty-eight, a widower. They met at a home for the aged.

RACKETEERING IN ANCESTORS LURES

Rich Woman Buys "Descent From Queen Elizabeth."

New York.—Rich Americans, especially women, have reached the stage where they crave ancestors, and to gratify this demand genealogists have sprung up in all parts of the country, writes Donald Lines Jacobus in the People, journal of the American Eugenics society. A rich woman will pay several thousand dollars to fish out a good string of ancestors, but unfortunately, since horse-thieves, village loafers and insignificant laborers do not appeal to rich people in the picture of their family tree, there are not a few racketeering genealogists who will delve deep into the past and pull forth the most charming array of ancestors imaginable. "One dealer in noble forebears had the effrontery," writes Mr. Jacobus, "to sell his client, a descent from Elizabeth, the 'Virgin Queen,' which pleased her immensely until she began to read a bit of English history. Mrs. Nouveau Riche wants to flaunt as aristocratic a pedigree as Mrs. Fatpurse boasts, and proves an easy victim to the 'genealogist' who for a good fee professes to trace her ancestry to Charlemagne or Lady Godiva."

"Many false ancestral lines, obtained from fraudulent dealers, have been placed in print by innocent purchasers, and often they are accepted and reprinted by uncritical genealogical students," asserts this writer in the May issue of People. "The capable searcher has to maintain a constant alertness to detect such impostures when handling printed sources of information, which too often are sources of misinformation. The most ingenious of racketeers in ancestry are the commercial houses which have intruded their activities into the genealogical field. Some of these are publishing houses which care little for the accuracy of the matter they print so long as the product sells. Some corporations masquerade under deceptive titles as historical societies."

Many rich American women have an obsession to trace their ancestry to noble blood, and it is from these women that the ancestor racketeer gets fine pickings. "A few of the early colonial settlers derived from the lesser English gentry, and by painstaking work on their ancestry abroad, it is sometimes possible to prove a noble lineage for them—though it is difficult to understand why people consider such ancestry to be more noble or honorable than descent from the unfortunate serfs who all too often were oppressed by these same gentry. Cow-Country Songs

Cowboy songs are interesting chiefly as human documents, for the light that they throw on the conditions of frontier life, and for their reflection of the old-time cattle baron and his crew. The whole cycle of the cowboy's experience—its monotony, its fun, its heroes, its love affairs, its dangers and the epic of the long drives overland from Texas to Montana—is set forth in the songs made and sung by the men themselves.

A Hopeful Message

THE message "that prosperity is on the way back to the dairy farmer" delivered by John Brandt, president of the Land O' Lakes Creameries association, at Spring Grove, says the Winona Republican-Herald, is good news in this section.

Coming from a man in Mr. Brandt's position it cannot be taken as just another prediction. Mr. Brandt, as head of an organization that is credited with marketing one-third of the butter produced in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, and North and South Dakota, is in a position to foresee the trend of the times. His big job is to keep his ear to the ground and continuously watch the market. A quarter of a cent change in price means thousands of dollars to his organization. In addition to this job of closely watching the market, he must maintain the confidence of thousands of dairy farmers. Mr. Brandt does not make predictions merely because they please and sound good.

The achievements of the Land O' Lakes association, as outlined at the district picnic, also show that this organization has been following the advice passed on to the dairymen by Mr. Brandt, who stated: "Yesterdays are gone forever; we've got to go to work, and the future is going to be what you and I make it."

The whole atmosphere of the gathering clearly revealed that agriculture has not just been marking time, but is taking full advantage of the many opportunities of today to get its house in order in preparation for the coming period of prosperity. Mistakes made in the past are being discovered, and means of eliminating them are being studied.

Plant a Garden

EVERYONE should plant a garden this year. There is much vacant land to be secured at moderate rental if your back lot is not large enough.

With intermittent employment evident in many lines of industry, it behooves families to take advantage of the good crop growing weather we have and plant a garden supplying many of the family needs for the winter.

The Red Cross in extending aid to drought stricken people also imbued many of these one-crop southern farmers with the garden idea and supplied seed and instruction.

Soil in Brainerd and the countryside will raise potatoes, cabbage, beets, turnips, rutabagas, carrots, etc. With these in adequate quantities, a family has quite a foundation to tide it through the winter.

In the old prospector days of the North, men labored to attain their "grub stake." After that was secured, a spirit of independence permeated the old-timers. In these modern days, if work is not available, the family should make it a point to plant a garden. There is still time and opportunity.

Car Accident Percentages

SUPPOSE you are a summer tourist, on a clear day, driving carefully, at moderate speed, in a good car, on a good road.

Let us say under those favorable circumstances your chances of being killed or injured that day are 1 in 1,000. Did you ever stop to think how your actions as a driver affect those odds?

James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company of Chicago, has recently issued some pertinent figures based on the study of over 100,000 automobile accidents made by a special committee over a period of fifteen years.

"The minute you cut out of the line of traffic," says Mr. Kemper, "and weave in and out, our statisticians say your chances of accident are multiplied by 50—you then have 50 chances in 1,000 of being involved in an accident—you have increased the personal accident hazard 5,000 per cent."

Some of the other increased hazard percentages are: driving over 40 miles per hour, 2,500 per cent; passing another car on a curve, 1,000 per cent; passing another car going up hill, 1,000 per cent; failure to signal, 500 per cent.

ABOUT 300 professional and business women from 17 Minnesota cities are expected to attend the annual midsummer meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs to be held at Owatonna July 18 and 19.

MORE than 300 churches and Sunday schools have been invited to attend the meetings of the National Probation association conference to be held at Minneapolis June 12 and 13. All sessions of the conference will be open to the public without charge.

NEW bleachers to seat 6,000 at the state fair grounds have been announced. Built of concrete and steel, they will be ready for the fair opening September 5. They will replace the present wooden structure at the east end of the grandstand and the cost is estimated at $41,000.

REORGANIZATION of the Johns Hopkins University College of Arts and Sciences under conditions which will permit the student's progress to be measured in terms of knowledge rather than in hours or courses has been announced by President Joseph Sweetman Ames.

CENTRAL MINNESOTA views with satisfaction the various jobs of highway work under way or soon to be started. Every bit of work created means jobs for many men who may have been unemployed.

THE day is gone when the average town will almost mortgage its existence and supply board and room free to all the delegates in order to get a convention.

MINNESOTA highway bonds have been accepted by the attorneys examining the issue and the large program of state work is now assured of early completion.

THE United States has to adopt a borrowing program to meet this year's deficit of almost a billion dollars and another, now unestimated, expected next year.

A COMMERCIAL fish farm in which the fisherman can catch his own fish is being established on the Judge James E. McNenny farm near Spearfish, S. D.

OCCASIONAL rains the Brainerd area is enjoying are helping farm work and crops. Lawns and gardens in Brainerd are thriving.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XLVI.

WHEN Carl saw how thoughtful Bim was, thoughtful and withdrawn, he became quiet and very tender.

"Love me, Bim?"

"Wouldn' you like to know?"

"No, I mean it, girl dear. Sorry for what has happened—between us, I mean?"

"What has happened, Carl?"

He looked hurt. "You can ask that? Well, then, I've gone crazy about you. First time in my life I've felt that way—not, I suppose, that it matters.

"I know," he went on, "you haven't promised anything. Been pretty careful about that, haven't you? Maybe I've taken too much for granted. As a matter of fact," he continued, smiling a little, "all my talk about your getting a job in the city—all that, you know—was just talk. Not that you wouldn't make good right enough! You see I thought it was what you wanted. The truth is I'd rather you'd forget it. Reporting's a tough racket, baby; you'd find it out pretty quick."

"What did you want, then, Carl?"

He answered seriously: "You to come home to, Bim. You to work for. We'd have a little apartment somewhere and . . . well . . ."

His voice trailed off into silence, for she was regarding him in a wide-eyed way which he seemed to find disconcerting. "Is the domestic stuff out?" he wanted to know.

"Couldn't stand it any longer," he gasped out brokenly.

All Alike

She shook her head, saying nothing. What she thought was that they were all alike—Walter, Carl—all men. Nice for some women to have careers, to be shining lights, but their wives must stay at home. Their wives must be just wives.

She had not associated this frame of mind with Carl Carey and now it startled her. It neither pleased nor displeased her; she simply was not interested.

"I'll have to think about it," she said finally. "You see . . . oh, don't think I'm silly about this. But I don't know what I want, I guess."

"Better think fast then. I'm looking for the blow-off here today or tomorrow. After which your friend Carl will be on his way. That," he added, "will be that!"

So it would, she reflected. He seemed suddenly a stranger, an alien with whom she never had established actual contact. She wondered if anyone—any woman, that is—ever would find it possible to feel close to Carl Carey as one felt close—well, to Walter Vance.

As soon as she could get away without seeming to hurry, Bim went up to Eagle's Nest, her thoughts busy with the brief glimpse she had caught yesterday of the broken parts of a puzzle all fitted together. She set about the self-imposed task of unearthing evidence which, she hoped, would save Bob Trent from being falsely charged with the murder of the Baroness von Wiese and would, at the same time, turn up the real criminal.

It seemed a hopeless task at first. What the police had accomplished since yesterday, even to determining the truth about the attack on the maid Jane, Bim did not know, since she no longer had Walter's confidence. Yet something in the way of a break was with her, she decided, when she discovered that Jane was confined to her room with a very painful arm and a slight temperature.

"I'll go and sit with her," she told Em.

"Oh, that's not necessary, Bim. Jane's been asleep all day."

"I'll go anyway. Maybe she'd like me to read to her."

"Very well, girl scout, do your good deed."

So Bim carried magazines to the little room on the third floor and was met with a quick look of gratitude from the maid's blue eyes. Bim made no attempt at talking, but read in a quiet tone which soon put the sick girl to sleep. But the instant that Bim made the most cautious movement her eyes flew open.

On Guard

Over and over this happened till Bim was in despair. One thing was necessary according to her reasoning, and this was a search of the maid's clothes—a search which would bring to light a certain tiny article upon which hinged the solution of the mystery holding all of Pine Hill in its grip.

Sitting there with her voice droning on and on, Bim wondered how she could be so sure of this—how it was she felt positive that concealed somewhere about the person of Jane was the key to the dark riddle. She could not answer the question; she only knew without understanding how or why.

And Jane's watchfulness hardened her conviction as hours went by. But it defeated her in the end. Yet she laid aside the magazines and went away with the firm resolve to return again. This was interruption—not conclusion.

Remembering the Trents, Bim proceeded up the hill with the thought of helping to prepare supper for Millicent and Bob, since the nurse would be away. But there was no supper in the cottage that Sunday night. Stepping across the little porch, Bim heard wild sobbing and Millicent came to meet her, wringing her hands and moaning.

"I can't do anything with him, Bim! Oh, it's wrong—it's all wrong! But he's got to tell; it'll kill him if he doesn't. What shall I do, Bim? Tell me what to do!"

Bim put her arms around the other woman, trying to calm her. "Hush, dear; don't make it worse. Bob's got something on his mind; we've known this. Better let him say whatever he wishes now. I'll send for Walter."

"No!"

The Only Way

"Darling, don't you see it's only a matter of time till everything's found out? Walter is his good friend—and yours, too. He's been holding them off; he'll help you, dearest. The one way—the only way—"

Millicent became quiet after a time and Bim went back to Eagle's Nest and telephoned to Walter, returning as soon as she could. He brought Reynolds and the two officers, with Millicent and Bim, passed into the sick room, where Bob Trent looked at them with fever-bright eyes.

"Couldn't stand it any longer," he gasped out brokenly. "Driving me crazy, lying here thinking. Held off on Millicent's account—the devil to pay—"

"Easy, old man," Walter kept telling him. "We're with you."

Trent's story came out in jerky, incoherent sentences. "I was sore that night. Who wouldn't have been?"

"Darling, it didn't matter," Millicent sobbed.

"Well, I knew I wouldn't sleep. I brought Millicent home and then I drove around. Sometimes I do that; it helps. Don't know how it happened, but I got off on the road back of Hardy's place; the new road they cut in there."

"That," thought Bim, "accounts for the tire tracks."

"I sat there a while," the tortured voice from the bed went on, "wondering how I'd get out. I'm no so good at juggling the car around and it's narrow there—ravine on one side. After a while I climbed down to look over the ground. Then I saw someone in the garden. By the Summer house."

"Yes?" Walter asked softly "Who was it, Bob?"

"Well, I knew I wouldn't sleep. I brought Millicent home and then I drove around. Sometimes I do that; it helps. Don't know how it happened, but I got off on the road back of Hardy's place; the new road they cut in there."

"That," thought Bim, "accounts for the tire tracks."

"I sat there a while," the tortured voice from the bed went on, "wondering how I'd get out. I'm no so good at juggling the car around and it's narrow there—ravine on one side. After a while I climbed down to look over the ground. Then I saw someone in the garden. By the Summer house."

"Yes?" Walter asked softly "Who was it, Bob?"

GOLFERS TO COMPETE FOR CENTRAL MINNESOTA TITLE

SCENE OF TOURNEY AT PINE BEACH 18 HOLE LINKS SOON

TOURNAMENT JUNE 27 TO 30 IS SPONSORED BY ST. CLOUD COUNTRY CLUB

COURSE OFFERS A VARIETY OF HAZARDS TO TEST SKILL OF ANY PLAYER

Over the picturesque Pine Beach golf course on Gull lake, golfers from clubs throughout the central part of the state will contest for the Central Minnesota title June 27 to 30.

The tournament, sponsored this year by the St. Cloud Country Club, is expected to draw the largest field in the history of the association and competition is expected to be keener than ever. Entries during the last several years have passed the 100 mark, and indications this year are that they will exceed by far any previous figure.

Walter Moynihan, Sauk Center youth who has won the title three times in five years, will be back to defend the title he won last year at Bemidji. Due to the better calibre of golf being played in the central section of the state and the fact that this year's entries are expected to go far above those of any past tournament, he is expected to have greater difficulty in retaining his title, followers of the game there say.

A feature of the gathering this year will be the women's tournament, the first attempted, to be held in conjunction with that for the men. Though it will be an innovation, association officials are confident it will meet with success and are predicting a large entry.

The Pine Beach course, overlooking the expansive waters of Gull lake nine miles west of here, is an 18-hole layout, with spacious bent grass greens. It offers a variety of hazards sufficient to test the skill of any player, duffer or professional, and deep traps are placed throughout the course to catch wayward shots.

The course boasts one of the longest holes in the state, a 625-yard affair on the second nine, with a par 6. Other than its length, however, this hole has no particular difficulties, possessing a straight fairway from tee to green.

There are other holes, though, that will provide a need for accuracy. A winding ravine intersects various fairways and poorly placed efforts are certain to find trouble. Tall pine trees dot the rough and numerous groves will produce difficulty for the one who departs from the open spaces of the fairways.

Among leading contenders for Moynihan's title expected to be on hand when the tourney opens will be Don Bohmer of St. Cloud, former Resorter's champion, a medalist three times in the Central tournament and a runner-up in 1929; Bob Leach of Alexandria, Carleton college star and runner-up to Moynihan last year at Bemidji; C. W. Jewett of Bemidji, Herb Anderson of Detroit Lakes, Ray Claggett of Montevideo, Dr. C. L. Cole, a former champion of Alexandria, and a host of younger stars.

Qualifying rounds will open the tournament on Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, with match play starting Monday morning. The sixteen low qualifiers will play in the championship flight and others will be paired in succeeding flights until all are carded for. The same schedule, except that only eight will be in the championship flight, will be followed in the women's tournament. Match play will continue through Monday and Tuesday mornings, with finlas Tuesday afternoon.

Delegations of golfers are expected from St. Cloud, Sauk Center, Bemidji, Alexandria, Detroit Lakes, Brainerd, Little Falls, Montevideo, Willmar, Walker, Park Rapids, Litchfield, Wadena, Fergus Falls, Benson, Morris and Long Prairie.

BUCKY HARRIS NOW PERCHED ON SECOND BASE

MANAGER TRIES TO PULL DETROIT TIGERS OUT OF HOLE

HARRIS UNTIL YESTERDAY HAD NOT PLAYED FULL GAME SINCE 1928

INJURIES TO 2 YOUTHFUL INFIELD STARS PRING HARRIS INTO LINEUP

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 10.—Bucky Harris has returned to second base, the post he guarded while with the Washington Senators, in an effort to pull his Detroit Tigers out of a disastrous losing streak.

Harris until yesterday had not played a full game since 1928 when he left the Senators, whom he had piloted to a world's championship in 1924.

But injuries to his two youthful infield stars, Dale Alexander and Charley Gehringer, forced Harris to change his mind. He had been playing shortstops at both first and second base and many Detroit losses were credited to the makeshift infield.

So yesterday, after the Tigers had lost 11 of their previous 12 contests, Harris went back to his old post. But even his presence failed to help the Tigers and they lost their fourth straight to the Philadelphia Athletics, 12 to 3.

A hit by Harris started the Tigers off ahead in the third inning but the Athletics came back in their half of the frame to tie the count and went on to win in the seventh and eighth innings when they scored a total of ten runs. Besides holding the Tigers to six hits, Earnshaw clouted a home run, a double and two singles to lead the Athletics' 15-hit attack against Bridges and Hoyt.

Washington kept pace with the league-leaders by trouncing the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 3. Alvin Crowder allowed 14 hits in registering his fourth consecutive victory but was effective in the pinches. The Senators combined their ten hits off Pat Caraway with eight bases on balls to pile up a big lead.

No other American League contests were played, the scheduled games between Cleveland and New York and St. Louis and Boston being postponed because of rain.

The St. Louis Cardinals retained their four and one half game lead in the National League by defeating Brooklyn, 8 to 5, to take the four-game series, three contests to one. The Cardinals collected 18 hits off six Robin hurlers and were aided by four Brooklyn errors.

New York gained sole possession of second place by turning back Chicago, 10 to 2. The defeat dropped the Cubs to third place.

Chuck Klein's fourteenth home run of the season with two mates on base featured Philadelphia's 7 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh. Brame, who went the route for the Pirates, allowed nine hits while three Philly hurlers yielded the same number.

Benny Frey returned to the mound after nearly a month's absence because of an injury to pitch the Cincinnati Reds to a 7 to 2 victory over Boston. Frey allowed only five hits while the Reds continued their heavy hitting against Moss and McAfee to Garner 13 blows.

CARNERA AND REDMOND BOUT IS POSTPONED

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER EVIDENT FOR EBBETS FIELD TONIGHT

JIMMY JOHNSTON FIXES NEW DATE FOR AFFAIR MONDAY, JUNE 15

Brooklyn, June 10—(U.P.)—The Primo Carnera-Pat Redmond heavyweight boxing bout scheduled at Ebbets Field tonight has been postponed because of unfavorable weather, until Monday, June 15, Jimmy Johnston announced today.

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 10.—Depict Primo Carnera and Pat Redmond as fiction characters meeting in a major New York outdoor boxing attraction and any intelligent magazine editor would reject the story as too fantastic for publication.

But truth is stranger than fiction so it can be recorded that the 270-pound Italian and the 250-pound Irishman are to meet tonight in a 10-round bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn—the weather and Madison Square Garden permitting.

Apparently there is little prospect of either the Garden or bad weather protecting the 40,000 expected spectators from their folly. The Garden would like to halt the bout by enforcing its injunction forbidding Carnera to meet "major" opponents but realizes that acknowledgement that Redmond is a major foe for Primo would ruin prospects of "steaming up" the Italian as an opponent for Young Stribling or Max Schmeling later in the season.

Rain may provide a temporary salvation, but Promoter "Jabbering Jim" Johnston threatens to stage the contest tomorrow, or on the first succeeding fair evening, if the threatening skies fail to clear in time to allow the bout tonight.

"Every boxing expert has written columns of copy telling how little ability the fighters have, and warning the public that this will be the world's worst fight," he said. "That assures a capacity crowd. The Italians will come to see Carnera and the poorer his opponent the better they'll be satisfied. The Irish will be on hand to see if any Irishman can be as lacking in fighting ability as Redmond is rated.

"Then, too, the dyed-in-the-wool fight fans always turn out when they are warned in advance that the fight will be poor. Apparently they want to be present so that they can be properly indignant if the bout is as bad as expected."

Tonight's fight should provide plenty of material for indignation. If it is as bad as promised—and there is no reason to believe that it will not—even the $1 spectators can feel that they have been gyped and anyone foolish enough to pay the tops of $5.75 will be justified in requesting a $5 rebate.

George Earnshaw Pitches, Bats Athletics to 12 to 3 Victory

ST. PAUL'S MARGIN NOW ONLY .013

LOUISVILLE COLONELS NEARLY BRIDGED GAP TO FIRST PLACE

(By United Press)

St. Paul had a margin of only .013 percentage points over Louisville today for the American Association leadership after the second place Colonels blanked the pace-setters in the only game yesterday.

Penner, Louisville pitcher, was invincible in taking a 4 to 0 decision. He gave only five safeties while his mates were pounding out nine at the expense of Munns.

Today's schedule:
St. Paul at Louisville.
Milwaukee at Columbus.
Kansas City at Toledo.
Minneapolis at Indianapolis.

Ed 'Strangler' Lewis to Meet Dr. Sarpolis, Cleveland Lithuanian

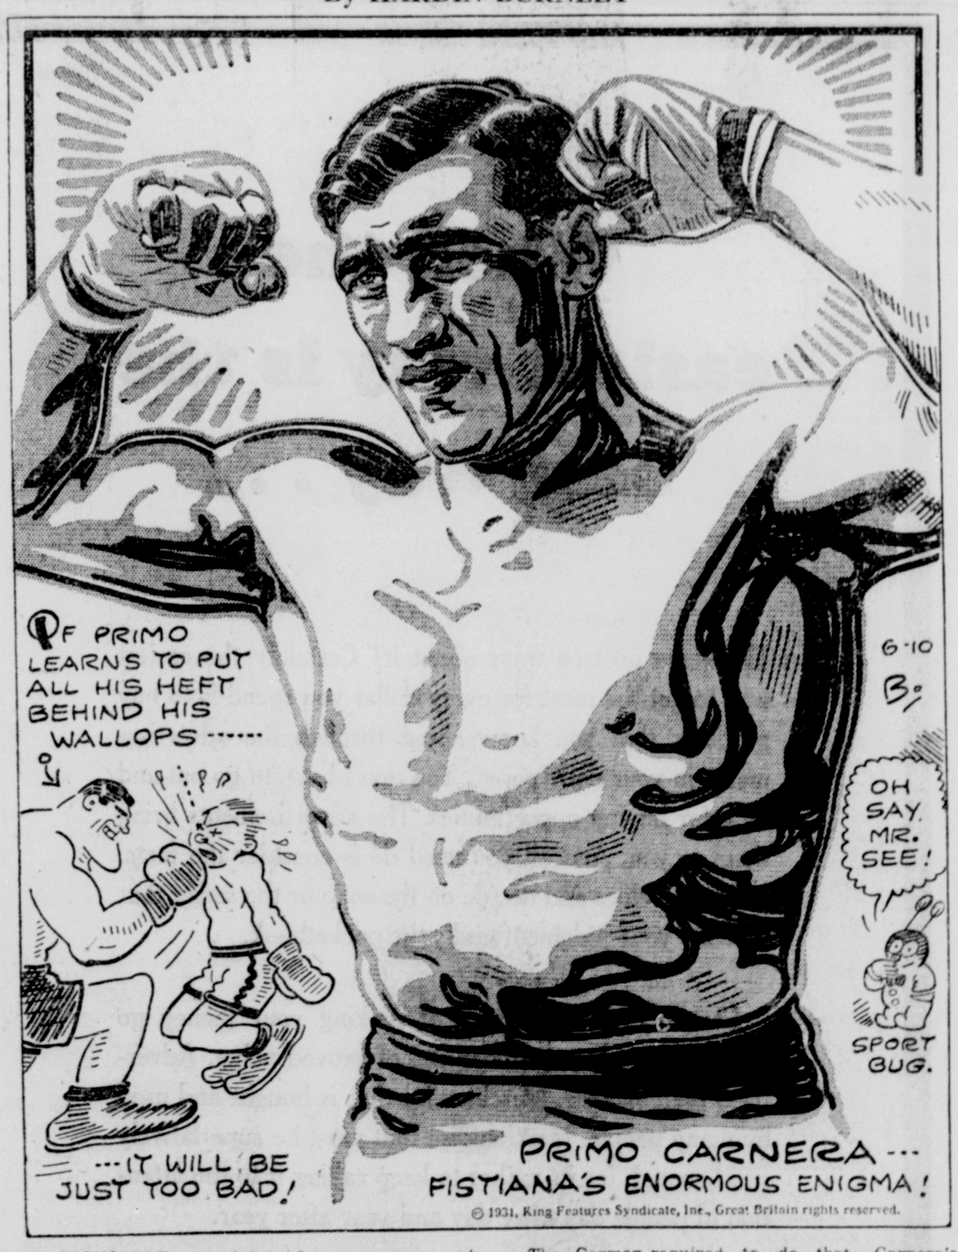

Los Angeles, June 10.—(U.P.)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, will meet Dr. Karl Sarpolis, 215 pound Lithuanian of Cleveland, in a two out of three fall bout at the Olympic auditorium tonight.

Abie Coleman, of New York, and Everette Marshall, of La Junta, Colo., will tangle in a one-hour time limit special event.

Sol Schlagel, Kansas Collegian, will meet Ted Oswald, of Oregon, in the opening bout.

Loses Jack; Gets Pat

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ORIGINALLY scheduled for tonight, the much talked-of Sharkey-Carnera 15-round bout for the world's championship (as far as New York State goes) has been postponed indefinitely by a Federal Court ruling upholding Madison Square Garden's prior contract with Primo.

Back of the Sharkey-Carnera match lies one of the weirdest chain of events in sport history. Outlawed for almost a year in New York and other States because of alleged managerial hocus-pokus, Primo has proved such a tremendous gate magnet that he completely overshadowed Champion Max Schmeling and other far more experienced heavyweights as a sure moneymaker. The German champ's title was forfeited by the N. Y. Boxing Commission when he refused to give Sharkey a return bout this year and the same board also outlawed W. L. Stribling when he signed to box Schmeling under the auspices of the Illinois Madison Square Garden, "a separate entity" from the N. Y. corporation of similar name, according to counsel for the latter organization.

In the meantime, realizing that Carnera might hurt the Schmeling-Stribling card by figuring in an opposition bout, the "separate entity" Garden signed him to meet the winner but when Primo's management discovered no guaranty that either Max or Bill would be required to do that, Carnera's pilots decided the Illinois Garden document was not a valid contract because, they claimed, it is inequitable.

So they decided to make a match with Sharkey, the N. Y. boxing lords reinstated Carnera, and all was well until the Garden's lawyers launched injunction litigation. On May 25, Judge John Knox upheld the Garden's claims, ordered it to post a $65,000 bond to protect Primo's interest and so ...Primo will not clash with Sharkey tonight, but he will take on Pat Redmond (glory be!) for 10 rounds...or less, good weather and no new injunction prevailing.

With Olympics In Mind

By HARDIN BURNLEY

WITH the West Coast Relays focussing fan interest for the present, it is easy to see that California's far-famed "native sons" are more earnest than ever in track and field endeavors—all pointing, it would seem, to the 1932 Olympics, which will be held a year from next summer at Los Angeles. Incidentally, a big A. A. U. meet is to be held there next week, in which most of the Coast's leading Olympic prospects will participate.

Perhaps the keenest rivalry now existing between leading athletes is the question of quarter-mile supremacy between Ben Eastman, of Stanford, and Vic Williams, of the University of Southern California. They were scheduled for that event at the Stanford-U. S. C. meet on May 2, but Eastman entered and won the half-mile instead. Williams won the quarter-mile on that occasion. They did do that distance in the mile relay, won by Stanford in the remarkable time of 3:14 3-10. Each was anchor man on his team. Eastman's team-mates led their Trojan rivals to the anchor post, and so Ben had a goodly start on Williams. Vic's friends swear he gained considerable ground on Eastman in that final quarter, but Ben's backers scoff at the claim. Yes, it looks as though many a duel may have to be waged before quarter-mile supremacy on the West Coast is settled between Ben and Vic.

Eastman has been timed at 48 3-10 over the quarter, and Williams' record is a tenth of a second faster. Both have shaved 4S in official trials.

With Harlow Rothert, Los Angeles A. A. weight wonder, and George Simpson, former Ohio State sprint star, back from an Oriental trip, more zest is added to competitions in which Frank Wykoff, Hec Dyer, "Herm" Brix and others will have to look more vigilantly than ever to their laurels. The boys now are setting the stage for next year's classic. Their activities are making every one Olympic-minded.

CARNERA AND REDMOND BOUT IS POSTPONED

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER EVIDENT FOR EBBETS FIELD TONIGHT

JIMMY JOHNSTON FIXES NEW DATE FOR AFFAIR MONDAY, JUNE 15

Brooklyn, June 10—(U.P.)—The Primo Carnera-Pat Redmond heavyweight boxing bout scheduled at Ebbets Field tonight has been postponed because of unfavorable weather, until Monday, June 15, Jimmy Johnston announced today.

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 10.—Depict Primo Carnera and Pat Redmond as fiction characters meeting in a major New York outdoor boxing attraction and any intelligent magazine editor would reject the story as too fantastic for publication.

But truth is stranger than fiction so it can be recorded that the 270-pound Italian and the 250-pound Irishman are to meet tonight in a 10-round bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn—the weather and Madison Square Garden permitting.

Apparently there is little prospect of either the Garden or bad weather protecting the 40,000 expected spectators from their folly. The Garden would like to halt the bout by enforcing its injunction forbidding Carnera to meet "major" opponents but realizes that acknowledgement that Redmond is a major foe for Primo would ruin prospects of "steaming up" the Italian as an opponent for Young Stribling or Max Schmeling later in the season.

Rain may provide a temporary salvation, but Promoter "Jabbering Jim" Johnston threatens to stage the contest tomorrow, or on the first succeeding fair evening, if the threatening skies fail to clear in time to allow the bout tonight.

"Every boxing expert has written columns of copy telling how little ability the fighters have, and warning the public that this will be the world's worst fight," he said. "That assures a capacity crowd. The Italians will come to see Carnera and the poorer his opponent the better they'll be satisfied. The Irish will be on hand to see if any Irishman can be as lacking in fighting ability as Redmond is rated.

"Then, too, the dyed-in-the-wool fight fans always turn out when they are warned in advance that the fight will be poor. Apparently they want to be present so that they can be properly indignant if the bout is as bad as expected."

Tonight's fight should provide plenty of material for indignation. If it is as bad as promised—and there is no reason to believe that it will not—even the $1 spectators can feel that they have been gyped and anyone foolish enough to pay the tops of $5.75 will be justified in requesting a $5 rebate.

LOUISVILLE COLONELS NEARLY BRIDGED GAP TO FIRST PLACE

(By United Press)

St. Paul had a margin of only .013 percentage points over Louisville today for the American Association leadership after the second place Colonels blanked the pace-setters in the only game yesterday.

Penner, Louisville pitcher, was invincible in taking a 4 to 0 decision. He gave only five safeties while his mates were pounding out nine at the expense of Munns.

Ed 'Strangler' Lewis to Meet Dr. Sarpolis, Cleveland Lithuanian

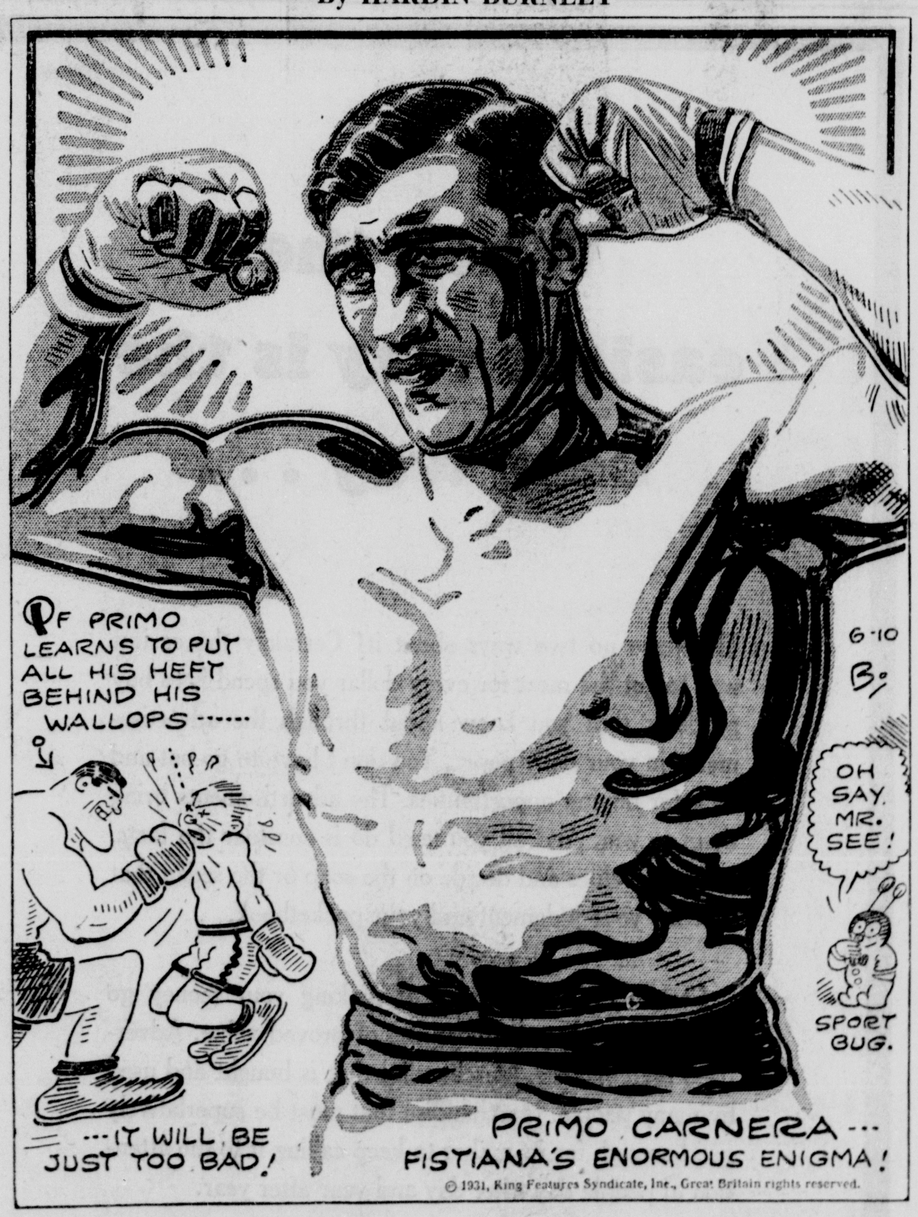

Los Angeles, June 10.—(U.P.)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, will meet Dr. Karl Sarpolis, 215 pound Lithuanian of Cleveland, in a two out of three fall bout at the Olympic auditorium tonight.

Abie Coleman, of New York, and Everette Marshall, of La Junta, Colo., will tangle in a one-hour time limit special event.

Sol Schlagel, Kansas Collegian, will meet Ted Oswald, of Oregon, in the opening bout.

Loses Jack; Gets Pat

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ORIGINALLY scheduled for tonight, the much talked-of Sharkey-Carnera 15-round bout for the world's championship (as far as New York State goes) has been postponed indefinitely by a Federal Court ruling upholding Madison Square Garden's prior contract with Primo.

Back of the Sharkey-Carnera match lies one of the weirdest chain of events in sport history. Outlawed for almost a year in New York and other States because of alleged managerial hocus-pokus, Primo has proved such a tremendous gate magnet that he completely overshadowed Champion Max Schmeling and other far more experienced heavyweights as a sure moneymaker. The German champ's title was forfeited by the N. Y. Boxing Commission when he refused to give Sharkey a return bout this year and the same board also outlawed W. L. Stribling when he signed to box Schmeling under the auspices of the Illinois Madison Square Garden, "a separate entity" from the N. Y. corporation of similar name, according to counsel for the latter organization.

In the meantime, realizing that Carnera might hurt the Schmeling-Stribling card by figuring in an opposition bout, the "separate entity" Garden signed him to meet the winner but when Primo's management discovered no guaranty that either Max or Bill would be required to do that, Carnera's pilots decided the Illinois Garden document was not a valid contract because, they claimed, it is inequitable.

So they decided to make a match with Sharkey, the N. Y. boxing lords reinstated Carnera, and all was well until the Garden's lawyers launched injunction litigation. On May 25, Judge John Knox upheld the Garden's claims, ordered it to post a $65,000 bond to protect Primo's interest and so ...Primo will not clash with Sharkey tonight, but he will take on Pat Redmond (glory be!) for 10 rounds...or less, good weather and no new injunction prevailing.

With Olympics In Mind

By HARDIN BURNLEY

WITH the West Coast Relays focussing fan interest for the present, it is easy to see that California's far-famed "native sons" are more earnest than ever in track and field endeavors—all pointing, it would seem, to the 1932 Olympics, which will be held a year from next summer at Los Angeles. Incidentally, a big A. A. U. meet is to be held there next week, in which most of the Coast's leading Olympic prospects will participate.

Perhaps the keenest rivalry now existing between leading athletes is the question of quarter-mile supremacy between Ben Eastman, of Stanford, and Vic Williams, of the University of Southern California. They were scheduled for that event at the Stanford-U. S. C. meet on May 2, but Eastman entered and won the half-mile instead. Williams won the quarter-mile on that occasion. They did do that distance in the mile relay, won by Stanford in the remarkable time of 3:14 3-10. Each was anchor man on his team. Eastman's team-mates led their Trojan rivals to the anchor post, and so Ben had a goodly start on Williams. Vic's friends swear he gained considerable ground on Eastman in that final quarter, but Ben's backers scoff at the claim. Yes, it looks as though many a duel may have to be waged before quarter-mile supremacy on the West Coast is settled between Ben and Vic.

Eastman has been timed at 48 3-10 over the quarter, and Williams' record is a tenth of a second faster. Both have shaved 4S in official trials.

With Harlow Rothert, Los Angeles A. A. weight wonder, and George Simpson, former Ohio State sprint star, back from an Oriental trip, more zest is added to competitions in which Frank Wykoff, Hec Dyer, "Herm" Brix and others will have to look more vigilantly than ever to their laurels. The boys now are setting the stage for next year's classic. Their activities are making every one Olympic-minded.

Cotton Materials for Summer Wear

New Mesh Smart and Practical; All-White Relieved by Other Shades

Season merges into season so gradually that no change is apparent save that the tempo of the weather is different and the costumes in one's wardrobe rotate from fur to chiffon and from chiffon to fur.

The heavy fur coat now is being retired to the cold storage vault while the lightweight coat, the cloth suit and the silk jacket frock are assuming a decided prominence, achieving their zenith in the filmy midsummer frock of chiffon, observes a fashion writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

At important social affairs smart evening frocks and velvet wraps are in order. While many evening frocks in black and white are seen, there also is a wealth of color to delight us, for vivid reds, rose, Patou's opaline shades, greens and blues make evening attire of unusual interest.

Long suede gloves in white, black or in harmonizing colors are worn with evening frocks, while slippers are often dyed to match the frock they accompany—satin, moire or crepe de chine being favored materials.

Lace, so very much in vogue during the winter months, has retained its importance for summer and some of the loviest evening gowns to be seen are of this delicate material. Chiffon, plain or printed, is another fabric stressed for evening and there are many frocks, smart and distinctive, which are fashioned of the two. As a rule the slip over which the frock is mounted is of the same color, however, here and there are shown frocks with contrasting slips, blue over pale pink being a clever combination.

Hats Are Interesting.

Hats are of increasing interest. The sailor has returned to vogue, but it is a glorified sailor, quite different from the stiff brimmed ones of a decade ago. This spring the sailor has a decided shape in that it is lifted at the side, or tilted up at the front.

Then there is the saucy tricorne with its pointed sides, and the close fitting little turban, often with an eyebrow line of a peak at the center of the forehead. The bandeau hat with its trimming of flowers is another favorite, the right side often coming down and forming a background for the right side of the face, a regular profile hat.

Yes, the new hats offer a wealth of modes, satisfactory to the most captious, even straw having suffered a change, rough novelty weaves having superceded to a marked degree the smooth straws of a summer ago. Bakou, however, is used and a smooth panama is noted.

So far fashion has stressed black and white and navy and white combinations. Brown and white is also to be seen, though many of the smartest costumes in these combinations are in the shop windows.

Coats are of a soft feminine type, the so-called "dressmaker mode," while suits, too, reflect the feminizing influence in their short sleeves, their soft scarfs of flat fur and in their pinched-in flaring peplum jackets.

The tendency toward the compose or combination costume, the jacket and skirt offering a contrast, is also noted. This is a very effective costume when the costume accessories are carefully selected.

Sports Dresses of Cotton.

The cotton bolls have it, for summer, 1931. Showings of what-the-well-dressed-deb-will-wear are accenting the new cotton materials of which there really seems to be no end.

They look like silk, or like wool, or like anything you like. Some of the newest sports dresses, for instance, are made of a new cotton mesh, which is as smart as possible, and more practical than that.

One outstanding model is made of a sheer mesh in a floral print, and features a little bolero jacket with three-quarter sleeves, two high points in the current fashion trend. The frock itself is sleeveless and the whole is most fetching.

Algerian colors are also strong in the new cotton mesh, which looks somewhat like a gunnysack in weave, but is fashioned in frocks that fit in a manner most unsack-like.

Scarlet, for instance, is all to the good, for either mesh dresses or blouses, relieved by a touch of chalk white in belts, collars, gloves and hats.

All white is perhaps the smartest of all summer shades, and when it is relieved by tri-colored belts and scarfs in the good old red, white and blue—well, it gives your public something to remember you by.

A new and distracting use for cotton materials appears in evening dresses, some of the most successful styles of the season being in white organdie, subtly fitted and flared so that the good old material wouldn't recognize itself.

If you are the demure type, who can blush at will, don't neglect the atmosphere value of an organdie dance frock. It plays havoc with any tag line.

Cotton corduroy also is coming into its own as a factor for sports suits. The colors are brilliant—blues, yellows, reds and whites, and the styles are as smart as anything—fitted jackets, double-breasted, with big pearl buttons, worn with yoke skirts, flared just enough.

And then there's our good old standby—pique. They are showing it this year in tennis dresses, in suits, in beach pajamas, in suits and blouses, and its popularity seems greater than ever.

The new trick of adding a pique vest and extra lapels to your last season's suit has been exploited before, but it's such a cagey idea, according to our notion, that it bears repetition.

Layers and Layers of Tucks.

To return to evening dresses for a minute, one of the most striking formal gowns of the recent Paris showings was a Chanel model of apricot-rose organdie, made of layers and layers of inch tucks.

The tucks formed a V on the bodice, swirled in a circular fashion about the hips, fitting the gown closely to that part of the anatomy. The skirt, which flared crisply and voluminously just below the hip-line, was composed entirely of tucks.

Sweaters of cotton-lisle in every pastel tone were introduced last season by the ultra-fashionables, and they are to enjoy an even wider vogue this season. Cotton mesh sports hose are also smart.

If you're clever, you can have an entire cotton wardrobe this summer—and why not?

To print or not to print, that is the question which is agitating so many of us these days. We hear, on one side, that prints are to be taboo this year for the really smart women, and then we see a picture of a well-known woman wearing a smart frock of print. We do not really believe that the print frock will be seen in such vast array as it was until last summer, but we do think that there will always be some smart prints available for both day and evening wear.

A cool flower pattern on a pastel ground is one of the most eye satisfying fashions that we know of and so it is safe to predict that it will be much seen this summer.

The Distinctive Frock of Brown and White Printed Chiffon at Left Is Belted With the Tailored Band. It Is Posed Over a Slip of Antique Ivory Satin and Has a Jacket of Fine Brown Lace. Right—Chic Jacket Frock, Latter of Black Chiffon, Skirt Being Laid in Narrow Pleats. The Short Jacket With Pleated Three-quarter Length Sleeves Is of Angel Blue Crepe Romain.

The Little Brother Francis of Assisi

Far away in the country of Italy, nestled cozily among the sharp peaks of the Umbrian mountains, is the tiny city of Assisi. It was in this city of Assisi, more than seven hundred years ago, that the Little Brother lived.

His father was a very rich merchant. Francis was his only son and he had many dreams of his growing to manhood and becoming as rich a man as he himself and a yet more powerful one. Francis was dressed in the finest of clothes and had everything for which a boy could wish. He was known as a child of joy, singing from morning till night songs that his mother taught him.

Often, had you lived in Assisi then, you might have seen him at the head of a group of other boys, singing and dancing and parading through the tiny, narrow streets. It was not strange then, that when he grew to be about sixteen and soldiers of enemy countries invaded the streets of Assisi, Francis took his place among the defenders and neither was it strange that one day he was taken prisoner and with others cast into a dark dungeon.

For a whole year he was forced to stay in prison but during all that time, though it was a cold, cheerless place, Francis kept his happy nature and used it to cheer the other prisoners.

At last the year drifted by and Francis was once more free, free to dance and sing with his companions. But alas! His year in the jail had made its mark. Something had happened to him. As he stood on a hilltop looking over his Assisi, his heart did not sing as usual. He seemed to see the city in a new light. In those days there were many, many poor people, many people sick and miserable. Francis had always loved everything beautiful, and misery or unhappiness were to him ugly things from which he would turn away. But now as he stood looking over his city, somehow or other, he could think of little else but the hundreds of miserable people who needed help.

His mother, Madonna Pica, as she was called, found him one day removing from the table all the fruits and good things to eat and packing them together as if he were going on a journey. She watched him and was surprised to see him take them into the street and distribute them here and there to those who were hungry. Madonna Pica was pleased, for she was a very good, kind woman and indeed helped him to pass them around. But his father, Peter Bernadone, was very angry, for he was a selfish man and few in those days thought of beggars as any but people to be left alone.

"I will beat him into forgetting these foolish notions," Peter Bernadone said. And he did! But the more his father struggled against him the more Francis kept by himself and did kindnesses unknown to him. He was afraid of his father and ashamed for being afraid, but he could not seem to help it.

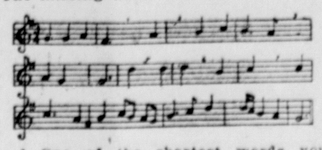

One day he said, "I will not be afraid of my father any longer," and he walked through the streets with his head held high, almost in rags. People in the streets saw him and knowing who he was, that he was a rich man's son, could not understand him and so jeered at him, calling him names, and shouting, "See the little Frenchy! See him—he has gone crazy!" Thus they shouted at him all the way to his home and his father, seeing his son dressed in such a way and hearing the jeers of the crowds, became more angry than ever. He was cruel, beating Francis and locking him in a dungeon. This time, however, Francis was unafraid. He had grown from a boy into a man and he resolved to leave the life his father wished for him entirely, and to devote all his time to making the suffering of the world less.

And so did he become a knight in the service of all mankind, a little brother to all the world.

The Game of What Do You See

Cut out the chart of pictures given here and mount it on a piece of cardboard. The players sit in a circle and the chart is placed in the center, covered over. The captain counts three, uncovers the picture chart, counts fifteen and covers it up again. Each player must write down a list of the things he remembers seeing in the picture. The one who remembers the most wins.

BEVERAGES TO ENGAGE CROSBY

LOCAL TEAM ENTERS COMBAT AGAIN THURSDAY AFTER BEATING BOILER SHOPS

The Brainerd Beverages were another game to the good in the City D-Ball league today after defeating the newly organized Boiler Shops ten by the score of 7 to 5.

Rofidal walked seven men, struck out seven and allowed nine hits. His wildness contributed to his downfall.

The Beverages scored two in the second, four in the fourth and one in the fifth while the Boilermakers crossed two in the first, two in the third and one in the sixth.

Heikkinen did some nice hurling for the bottlers.

The Beverages will continue to seek further conquests Thursday when they meet the Crosby invaders at 6 p. m. at the N. P. grounds. The visitors comprise the same team that defeated Penneys earlier in the season.

The Lord's Day

Sunday is always considered the first day of the week. From the early days of Christianity it was observed as the Lord's day by many Christians, though many of them observed the Jewish Sabbath or the seventh day also.

Spanish Combs Revived by Chic Women of London

"One natural corollary of the long hair fashion," a London fashion editor says, "is the revival of the Spanish comb. Young debutantes and others have put flowers in their hair, but it was not until the other day in a crowded restaurant that I saw my first pair of Spanish combs again, and very attractive they were.

"One was worn by a girl who also wore long white gloves and a beauty spot on her shoulder. Incidentally the throng included a young man Victorian enough to wear white gloves, although he was not at a private dance.

"The return of the Spanish comb is entirely in keeping with the times. It is pretty, feminine, coquettish, decorative and alluring. One may be sure that hundreds will be taken out of the tissue paper in which they have lain hidden for the past seven or eight years.

"The cycle of fashion, indeed, is so defined that it does not lok as though it is wise to throw anything away on the ground of its having gone out of fashion. Keep it four or five years and, aided by an exhibition or two to focus interest on the past, you will soon find it smart again."

Cape Silhouettes Are Likely to Win Favor

Cape effects are showing a strong inclination to come back, not as leaders of the feminine party, as they were last spring and summer, but as the occasional feature that gains in interest by not being the one most frequently seen.

So far there are only certain cape suggestions that have been adopted and the cape as a separate wrap has been left out of consideration. Cape collars there are, however, favored for summer types of dresses, for tailored coats, these such as Chanel's new coachman coat and for sleeveless summer wraps. The latter, although seen only in a few instances to date, are especially noteworthy. Several imports have advocated cape-like panels over the arms or shorter cape to hide the upper part of the arm on the sleeveless coat. Detachable cape collars have also been represented.

Cape cap sleeves for frocks have shown a tendency to return.

Classic Inspired by Whaling

Although the largest creature on earth, the whale, is technically not a fish but a warm-blooded mammal, encounters between whales and whalers belong legitimately in the sagas of sea fights between men and fish. And at least one classic of literature, Herman Melville's "Moby Dick," was inspired by whaling.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

ORANGE juice as a substitute for vinegar will give a new and deliciously piquant flavor to French dressing. Select the thin-skinned yellow oranges when, as here, the amount of juice is the first consideration. These are always the juicier.

An ice cream carton makes an excellent mould for ice-box cookies. Press the mixture in firmly and put on the cover. Then, when wanted, just tear away the cardboard and you have a perfectly shaped cylinder all ready to be sliced.

Lasting Print Paper

Newsprint paper that can stand being baked for 72 hours at the boiling point of water is strong enough to be suitable for permanent library archives, government scientists say.

Spreading Fertility

A beneficent person is like a fountain watering the earth and spreading fertility; it is therefore more delightful and more honorable to give than to receive.—Epicurus.

Smart People

Laymen are those smart people who know everything that great scientists still labor in vain to discover.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Candidates' Colors

In ancient Rome it was the custom for those seeking office to wear white togas, and from this custom grew the term "candidate," from the Latin "candidatus," meaning "clothed in white."

Gratitude

Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knows none more fragrant—Ballou.

When the easiest way is the best way . . .

There are no two ways about it! Certainly the easiest way to get the most for every dollar you spend is to buy products that you know about through the advertisements in your daily paper. You don't have to go out and look for buying opportunities. The advertisements bring them to you. And all you need do is consider the facts, compare values and decide on the soap or the sedan that best fits your judgment and your pocketbook.

Certainly the best way of making your money go farthest is to buy merchandise of proved value. Advertised merchandise. Merchandise that is bought and used by many people. Merchandise that must be superlatively good enough for its maker to keep calling it to the attention of people day after day and year after year.

This is the service—of convenience and profit—that the advertisements offer you every day. It will pay you to read them regularly and take advantage of everything they can do for you.

If you're clever, you can have an entire cotton wardrobe this summer—and why not?

To print or not to print, that is the question which is agitating so many of us these days. We hear, on one side, that prints are to be taboo this year for the really smart women, and then we see a picture of a well-known woman wearing a smart frock of print. We do not really believe that the print frock will be seen in such vast array as it was until last summer, but we do think that there will always be some smart prints available for both day and evening wear.

A cool flower pattern on a pastel ground is one of the most eye satisfying fashions that we know of and so it is safe to predict that it will be much seen this summer.

The Little Brother Francis of Assisi

Far away in the country of Italy, nestled cozily among the sharp peaks of the Umbrian mountains, is the tiny city of Assisi. It was in this city of Assisi, more than seven hundred years ago, that the Little Brother lived.

His father was a very rich merchant. Francis was his only son and he had many dreams of his growing to manhood and becoming as rich a man as he himself and a yet more powerful one. Francis was dressed in the finest of clothes and had everything for which a boy could wish. He was known as a child of joy, singing from morning till night songs that his mother taught him.

Often, had you lived in Assisi then, you might have seen him at the head of a group of other boys, singing and dancing and parading through the tiny, narrow streets. It was not strange then, that when he grew to be about sixteen and soldiers of enemy countries invaded the streets of Assisi, Francis took his place among the defenders and neither was it strange that one day he was taken prisoner and with others cast into a dark dungeon.

For a whole year he was forced to stay in prison but during all that time, though it was a cold, cheerless place, Francis kept his happy nature and used it to cheer the other prisoners.

At last the year drifted by and Francis was once more free, free to dance and sing with his companions. But alas! His year in the jail had made its mark. Something had happened to him. As he stood on a hilltop looking over his Assisi, his heart did not sing as usual. He seemed to see the city in a new light. In those days there were many, many poor people, many people sick and miserable. Francis had always loved everything beautiful, and misery or unhappiness were to him ugly things from which he would turn away. But now as he stood looking over his city, somehow or other, he could think of little else but the hundreds of miserable people who needed help.

His mother, Madonna Pica, as she was called, found him one day removing from the table all the fruits and good things to eat and packing them together as if he were going on a journey. She watched him and was surprised to see him take them into the street and distribute them here and there to those who were hungry. Madonna Pica was pleased, for she was a very good, kind woman and indeed helped him to pass them around. But his father, Peter Bernadone, was very angry, for he was a selfish man and few in those days thought of beggars as any but people to be left alone.

"I will beat him into forgetting these foolish notions," Peter Bernadone said. And he did! But the more his father struggled against him the more Francis kept by himself and did kindnesses unknown to him. He was afraid of his father and ashamed for being afraid, but he could not seem to help it.

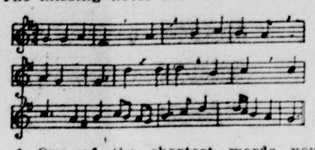

One day he said, "I will not be afraid of my father any longer," and he walked through the streets with his head held high, almost in rags. People in the streets saw him and knowing who he was, that he was a rich man's son, could not understand him and so jeered at him, calling him names, and shouting, "See the little Frenchy! See him—he has gone crazy!" Thus they shouted at him all the way to his home and his father, seeing his son dressed in such a way and hearing the jeers of the crowds, became more angry than ever. He was cruel, beating Francis and locking him in a dungeon. This time, however, Francis was unafraid. He had grown from a boy into a man and he resolved to leave the life his father wished for him entirely, and to devote all his time to making the suffering of the world less.

And so did he become a knight in the service of all mankind, a little brother to all the world.

BEVERAGES TO ENGAGE CROSBY

LOCAL TEAM ENTERS COMBAT AGAIN THURSDAY AFTER BEATING BOILER SHOPS

The Brainerd Beverages were another game to the good in the City D-Ball league today after defeating the newly organized Boiler Shops ten by the score of 7 to 5.

Rofidal walked seven men, struck out seven and allowed nine hits. His wildness contributed to his downfall.

The Beverages scored two in the second, four in the fourth and one in the fifth while the Boilermakers crossed two in the first, two in the third and one in the sixth.

Heikkinen did some nice hurling for the bottlers.

The Beverages will continue to seek further conquests Thursday when they meet the Crosby invaders at 6 p. m. at the N. P. grounds. The visitors comprise the same team that defeated Penneys earlier in the season.

The Lord's Day

Sunday is always considered the first day of the week. From the early days of Christianity it was observed as the Lord's day by many Christians, though many of them observed the Jewish Sabbath or the seventh day also.

Spanish Combs Revived by Chic Women of London

"One natural corollary of the long hair fashion," a London fashion editor says, "is the revival of the Spanish comb. Young debutantes and others have put flowers in their hair, but it was not until the other day in a crowded restaurant that I saw my first pair of Spanish combs again, and very attractive they were.

"One was worn by a girl who also wore long white gloves and a beauty spot on her shoulder. Incidentally the throng included a young man Victorian enough to wear white gloves, although he was not at a private dance.

"The return of the Spanish comb is entirely in keeping with the times. It is pretty, feminine, coquettish, decorative and alluring. One may be sure that hundreds will be taken out of the tissue paper in which they have lain hidden for the past seven or eight years.

"The cycle of fashion, indeed, is so defined that it does not lok as though it is wise to throw anything away on the ground of its having gone out of fashion. Keep it four or five years and, aided by an exhibition or two to focus interest on the past, you will soon find it smart again."

Cape Silhouettes Are Likely to Win Favor

Cape effects are showing a strong inclination to come back, not as leaders of the feminine party, as they were last spring and summer, but as the occasional feature that gains in interest by not being the one most frequently seen.

So far there are only certain cape suggestions that have been adopted and the cape as a separate wrap has been left out of consideration. Cape collars there are, however, favored for summer types of dresses, for tailored coats, these such as Chanel's new coachman coat and for sleeveless summer wraps. The latter, although seen only in a few instances to date, are especially noteworthy. Several imports have advocated cape-like panels over the arms or shorter cape to hide the upper part of the arm on the sleeveless coat. Detachable cape collars have also been represented.

Cape cap sleeves for frocks have shown a tendency to return.

Classic Inspired by Whaling

Although the largest creature on earth, the whale, is technically not a fish but a warm-blooded mammal, encounters between whales and whalers belong legitimately in the sagas of sea fights between men and fish. And at least one classic of literature, Herman Melville's "Moby Dick," was inspired by whaling.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

ORANGE juice as a substitute for vinegar will give a new and deliciously piquant flavor to French dressing. Select the thin-skinned yellow oranges when, as here, the amount of juice is the first consideration. These are always the juicier.

An ice cream carton makes an excellent mould for ice-box cookies. Press the mixture in firmly and put on the cover. Then, when wanted, just tear away the cardboard and you have a perfectly shaped cylinder all ready to be sliced.

Lasting Print Paper

Newsprint paper that can stand being baked for 72 hours at the boiling point of water is strong enough to be suitable for permanent library archives, government scientists say.

Spreading Fertility

A beneficent person is like a fountain watering the earth and spreading fertility; it is therefore more delightful and more honorable to give than to receive.—Epicurus.

Smart People

Laymen are those smart people who know everything that great scientists still labor in vain to discover.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Candidates' Colors

In ancient Rome it was the custom for those seeking office to wear white togas, and from this custom grew the term "candidate," from the Latin "candidatus," meaning "clothed in white."

Gratitude

Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knows none more fragrant—Ballou.

When the easiest way is the best way . . .

There are no two ways about it! Certainly the easiest way to get the most for every dollar you spend is to buy products that you know about through the advertisements in your daily paper. You don't have to go out and look for buying opportunities. The advertisements bring them to you. And all you need do is consider the facts, compare values and decide on the soap or the sedan that best fits your judgment and your pocketbook.

Certainly the best way of making your money go farthest is to buy merchandise of proved value. Advertised merchandise. Merchandise that is bought and used by many people. Merchandise that must be superlatively good enough for its maker to keep calling it to the attention of people day after day and year after year.

This is the service—of convenience and profit—that the advertisements offer you every day. It will pay you to read them regularly and take advantage of everything they can do for you.

State Executive Addresses Minnesota Association of Commercial Secretaries at Pine Beach Hotel

TWO DAY CONVENTION HELD

Program of Addresses of Session Followed by Golf Tournament Won by Jerry Pratt of Duluth

The Minnesota Association of Commercial Secretaries closed its two days convention at Pine Beach hotel on Gull Lake yesterday afternoon with a golf tournament won by Jerry Pratt, assistant secretary of the Duluth Commercial club. Prizes for the tournament were donated by Arthur L Roberts, head of the Roberts chain of hotels, of which Pine Beach in one of his newest hotels operated.

Of the assemblage of 54 secretaries present at the meeting, many then left for fishing trips on Guil and other lakes.

The annual election of officers is held at the winter session.

Governor Floyd B. Olson at the banquet spoke of the work of the 10,000 Lakes Greater Minnesota Association. He suggested the secretaries make a survey of the industries in their localities, products manufactured and aid to advertise them and encourage people of the state to buy them.

Resolutions adopted took cognizance of the governor's suggestions. Another resolution thanked Mr. Roberts of the hotel management for the many courtesies extended.

The suggestions made by Governor Olson bore fruit and the secretaries association directors and committee named will confer within a few weeks with the governor on the various methods of business extension.

Secretaries who presided at the various meetings included Perry Williams of Minneapolis, S. V. Saxby of Duluth, Fred P. Fellows of St. Paul and State President Herbert Buck of Faribault.

ARGUES TOW BILL, FINED AS DRUNK

Elmer Dechaine Runs Into Ditch, Towed to Town, Then Refuses to Pay Bill

Elmer Dechaine thought the service of a Brainerd garage exceedingly good when they towed his car in from a ditch in the country last night.

But when it came to paying the bill he didn't like it a little.

"I won't pay it and moreover I'm here to say that I can lick any man in this garage," he was quoted as saying.

None of the mechanics felt like indulging in fisticuffs so they called the police.

The police came. There was evidence of liquor on Dechaine's breath and in his manner.

Dechaine this morning pleaded guilty to intoxication in municipal court and was fined $10.

"A KNIGHT COMES FLYING"

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

•

Starting Saturday in the Brainerd Daily Dispatch

How Aviation Lured Ruth Nichols To Fame Via the Sky Route

Ruth Nichols was now well on the way to the goal she had set herself, and her parents, seeing that flying meant just about everything to the daughter they loved, not only withdrew their objections to the career she had chosen but encouraged her. Her mother was sympathetic and often accompanied her to the flying field. No doubt the maternal heart often thrilled with pride as Mrs. Nichols watched the baby she had brought into the world and taught to lisp her baby prayers perform some of the brilliant feats that have since made her name a byword. But who knows the prayers that went up from that mother's heart every moment that her darling was in the air?

RUTH and MOTHER

In 1927 Ruth received the first of two transport licenses which the U. S. Department of Commerce awarded to women fliers. At the same time she became the only woman to hold the department license as an aviation mechanic. But it was in 1928 that Ruth made the public sit up and take notice. Taking off from New York with two passengers she taxied to a stop in Miami, Fla., 12 hours and 8 minutes later, having made the first non-stop flight between the two cities. Shortly after that Ruth became the first woman executive in a big aviation company when she joined the Fairchild organization. Her only female competitor in aviation at this time was Amelia Earhart, with whom she is shown here.

WITH AMELIA EARHART (left)

From this point, Ruth's flying career takes on the aspect of a triumphal march made up of one achievement after another. Among her remarkable performances was the completion of a 12,000-mile flying tour in which she visited forty-six States in the interest of aviation, and all without one forced landing or a single mishap. In December, 1930, Miss Nichols flew from New York to Burbank, Cal., in 16 hours and 59½ minutes, setting a new record for women. But her return flight from the Coast was even more remarkable, for she made the transcontinental trip in 13 hours, 22 minutes, bettering all records (including Colonel Lindbergh's) with the exception of Capt. Frank Hawks'

DRESSED FOR ALTITUDE HOP

MAY NECESSITATE TRANSFER OF HERDS

15,000 CATTLE AND HORSES TO BE MOVED FROM SOUTH TO NORTHERN RANGES

Regina, Sask., June 10—(U.P.)—Transportation of a herd of more than 15,000 cattle and horses from southern ranges to northern pastures may be necessitated unless considerable rainfall is received within a week, it was reported today.

Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, premier of Saskatchewan, was supervising arrangements to provide for the stock in the northern part of the province if the movement is made necessary for their preservation.

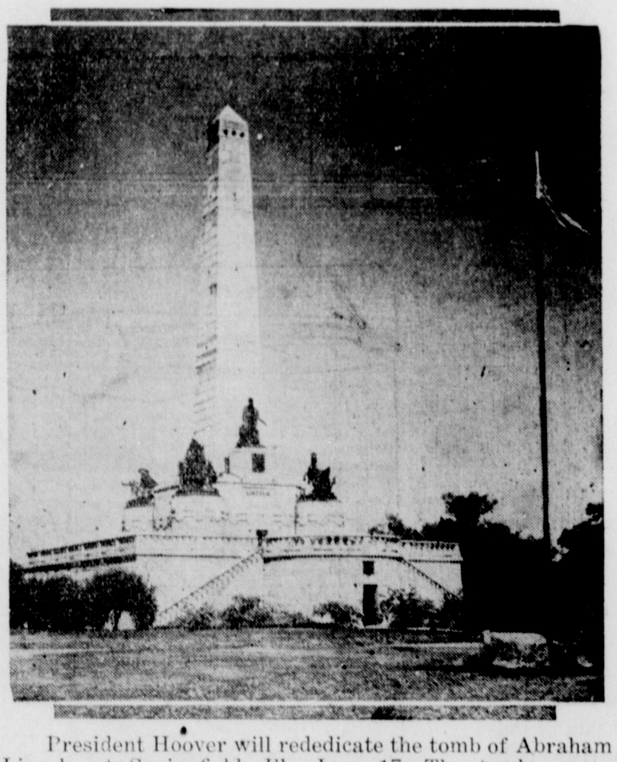

Rains that ended a two months' drought in many parts of the western prairie provinces furnished only light showers in the drought stricken areas of south central Saskatchewan. Sufficient fodder is at hand for only two weeks, it was said. Grazing land for 10,000 cattle and 5,000 horses will be provided, Dr. Anderson said.

The rains which have fallen this week in the extreme southern and northern parts of the province have settled the clouds of dust for the first time this year.

Considerable soil drifting since early spring has caused considerable reseeding. Heavy rains were reported from all points in Alberta. Cardstone had .35 inches, Foremost, .69; Stettler, .40; Medicine Hat, .28; Lethbridge, .22, and Lloydminister, .20.

Precipitation in Saskatchewan had been the heaviest at Humboldt where half an inch was recorded. In the drier areas of the province only .02 inches were reported.

TO BE REDEDICATED

President Hoover will rededicate the tomb of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., June 17. The tomb, reconstructed at a cost of $175,000 by the state of Illinois, outwardly remains the same, but the interior has been beautified.

Earth Insignificant

Take the earth and grind it into the smallest sand and scatter it throughout space and there will not be a grain for each star.—Agassiz.

UNCLE SAM'S DOMAIN WIDELY SCATTERED

During Half the Year Sun Never Sets on Flag.

Washington.—During 5½ months of each year the sun never sets on the flag of the United States.

The very name, United States of America, meaning 48 sovereign states, located in continental North America, tends to obscure the far-flung extent of Uncle Sam's domain.

"Consider the widely scattered units over which the Stars and Stripes wave, and some time-honored geographic statements have to be revised until they sound like a 'believe-it-or-not' series," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"For example: What is the geographic center of the United States?

"'Smith county, Kansas,' would be the reply of any well-informed schoolboy.

Hawaii Is Real Center.

"But Hawaii, not Kansas, is nearer the actual center of this 'United States, extended,' which includes our widely separated territorial units.

"Hawaii, most easterly of the lengthy Hawaiian chain, is situated approximately half way between St. Croix, of the Virgin Islands, and Balabac island, of the Philippines. St. Croix and Balabac, respectively, are the nation's most easterly and most westerly lands.

"The Hawaiian islands chain, incidentally, in itself affords a surprising span of United States territory. If an airplane flew along the entire group it would cover a distance equivalent to that from Albany, New York, to Bismarck, North Dakota.

"Eastport, Maine, is usually referred to as our 'farthest east,' which it is from a continental standpoint. Forget the continental limitations, and the aforementioned St. Croix, Virgin islands, is Uncle Sam's nearest Atlantic approach to the Old World.

"The Philippines, on the other hand, which are Uncle Sam's 'Farthest West,' constitute his closest contact point with Europe's 'Far East,' or Asia.

"Early risers in the Virgin islands, or in Maine, are seeing the sun come up at the moment the sun is setting for natives of the Philippines, during the period of late spring and early summer.

Alaska Farthest North.

"Uncle Sam's farthest north is Alaska, American 'land of the midnight sun' which, with its protected inland waterways, its age-old glaciers disgorging huge icebergs, and its fingerlike fiords, resembles Europe's peninsular Norway.

"Spanning almost half way around the world in latitude; the United States comes very nearly doing the same in longitude. For there is one United States possession, Samoa—the only inhabited one south of the Equator. Pago-Pago, in Samoa, is our naval sentinel in southern waters.

"Then there is isolated Guam, rendezvous of those giant electric serpents, the undersea cables, which guards, with its naval base, our ship lines to the faraway Philippines. Prosperous Porto Rico is another United States area within the boundaries of these farthest outposts of Uncle Sam's dominion.

"Now, note again the first sentence: During 5½ months of each year the sun never sets on the flag of the United States. If Marie Byrd Land in Antarctica were inhabited, and if there were anyone there to fly the United States flag continuously, the statement might be revised to read 9½ months instead of 5½ months."

Work on Great Aqueduct Starts Boom in Desert

Vidal, Calif.—Not only will Boulder dam construction bring new desert towns into being, but preparations for the building of the Colorado river aqueduct into the Los Angeles area have resulted in a boom in this small desert town, which in its palmiest days has boasted of only 3,500 population.

Vidal is situated in San Bernardino county, 40 miles south of Needles. At present it consists of a railroad station on the Phoenix branch of the Santa Fe, a hotel, post office, general store, the ever-present filling station, and a boarding house.

Many miles from any other center of population, steps already have been taken to care for the workers which the aqueduct construction will bring here.

The huge conduit must pass through the nearby Whipple mountains, and for several years crews will be required to tunnel through the rock formation.

The San Bernardino county planning commission already has approved an ambitious plan for the townsite, and workmen soon will lay domestic water mains, pave the main streets, and erect business buildings, in anticipation of the arrival of thousands of workmen next fall.

Goose Escapes From New Owner and Flies Home

Manteca, Calif.—Mrs. Charles Coe, resident here, has discovered that the domestic goose has a strong homing instinct. She bought a bird from Joe Vinet at Atlanta, five miles distant, took it home and penned it.

In the morning she found the goose gone. After a search she went to Vinet's farm. She had been there only a few minutes when the goose flew in and joined the other fowls.

Hints for Homemakers

A COFFEE "wake-me-up" is the newest and smartest note in entertaining the over-night or week-end guest. The guest is served a demi-tasse of black coffee just before arising.

If your cellar stairs are badly lighted, as most of them are, it is a wise precaution to paint the top and bottom steps white. The white steps will show up in the dark, and go far toward reducing the possibility of a fall.

How Aviation Lured Ruth Nichols To Fame Via the Sky Route

Ruth Nichols was now well on the way to the goal she had set herself, and her parents, seeing that flying meant just about everything to the daughter they loved, not only withdrew their objections to the career she had chosen but encouraged her. Her mother was sympathetic and often accompanied her to the flying field. No doubt the maternal heart often thrilled with pride as Mrs. Nichols watched the baby she had brought into the world and taught to lisp her baby prayers perform some of the brilliant feats that have since made her name a byword. But who knows the prayers that went up from that mother's heart every moment that her darling was in the air?

RUTH and MOTHER

In 1927 Ruth received the first of two transport licenses which the U. S. Department of Commerce awarded to women fliers. At the same time she became the only woman to hold the department license as an aviation mechanic. But it was in 1928 that Ruth made the public sit up and take notice. Taking off from New York with two passengers she taxied to a stop in Miami, Fla., 12 hours and 8 minutes later, having made the first non-stop flight between the two cities. Shortly after that Ruth became the first woman executive in a big aviation company when she joined the Fairchild organization. Her only female competitor in aviation at this time was Amelia Earhart, with whom she is shown here.

WITH AMELIA EARHART (left)

From this point, Ruth's flying career takes on the aspect of a triumphal march made up of one achievement after another. Among her remarkable performances was the completion of a 12,000-mile flying tour in which she visited forty-six States in the interest of aviation, and all without one forced landing or a single mishap. In December, 1930, Miss Nichols flew from New York to Burbank, Cal., in 16 hours and 59½ minutes, setting a new record for women. But her return flight from the Coast was even more remarkable, for she made the transcontinental trip in 13 hours, 22 minutes, bettering all records (including Colonel Lindbergh's) with the exception of Capt. Frank Hawks'

DRESSED FOR ALTITUDE HOP

MAY NECESSITATE TRANSFER OF HERDS

15,000 CATTLE AND HORSES TO BE MOVED FROM SOUTH TO NORTHERN RANGES

Regina, Sask., June 10—(U.P.)—Transportation of a herd of more than 15,000 cattle and horses from southern ranges to northern pastures may be necessitated unless considerable rainfall is received within a week, it was reported today.

Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, premier of Saskatchewan, was supervising arrangements to provide for the stock in the northern part of the province if the movement is made necessary for their preservation.

Rains that ended a two months' drought in many parts of the western prairie provinces furnished only light showers in the drought stricken areas of south central Saskatchewan. Sufficient fodder is at hand for only two weeks, it was said. Grazing land for 10,000 cattle and 5,000 horses will be provided, Dr. Anderson said.

The rains which have fallen this week in the extreme southern and northern parts of the province have settled the clouds of dust for the first time this year.

Considerable soil drifting since early spring has caused considerable reseeding. Heavy rains were reported from all points in Alberta. Cardstone had .35 inches, Foremost, .69; Stettler, .40; Medicine Hat, .28; Lethbridge, .22, and Lloydminister, .20.

Precipitation in Saskatchewan had been the heaviest at Humboldt where half an inch was recorded. In the drier areas of the province only .02 inches were reported.

TO BE REDEDICATED

President Hoover will rededicate the tomb of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., June 17. The tomb, reconstructed at a cost of $175,000 by the state of Illinois, outwardly remains the same, but the interior has been beautified.

Earth Insignificant

Take the earth and grind it into the smallest sand and scatter it throughout space and there will not be a grain for each star.—Agassiz.

UNCLE SAM'S DOMAIN WIDELY SCATTERED

During Half the Year Sun Never Sets on Flag.

Washington.—During 5½ months of each year the sun never sets on the flag of the United States.

The very name, United States of America, meaning 48 sovereign states, located in continental North America, tends to obscure the far-flung extent of Uncle Sam's domain.

"Consider the widely scattered units over which the Stars and Stripes wave, and some time-honored geographic statements have to be revised until they sound like a 'believe-it-or-not' series," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"For example: What is the geographic center of the United States? "'Smith county, Kansas,' would be the reply of any well-informed schoolboy.

Hawaii Is Real Center.

"But Hawaii, not Kansas, is nearer the actual center of this 'United States, extended,' which includes our widely separated territorial units.

"Hawaii, most easterly of the lengthy Hawaiian chain, is situated approximately half way between St. Croix, of the Virgin islands, and Balabac island, of the Philippines. St. Croix and Balabac, respectively, are the nation's most easterly and most westerly lands.

"The Hawaiian islands chain, incidentally, in itself affords a surprising span of United States territory. If an airplane flew along the entire group it would cover a distance equivalent to that from Albany, New York, to Bismarck, North Dakota.

"Eastport, Maine, is usually referred to as our 'farthest east,' which it is from a continental standpoint. Forget the continental limitations, and the aforementioned St. Croix, Virgin islands, is Uncle Sam's nearest Atlantic approach to the Old World.

"The Philippines, on the other hand, which are Uncle Sam's 'Farthest West,' constitute his closest contact point with Europe's 'Far East,' or Asia.

"Early risers in the Virgin islands, or in Maine, are seeing the sun come up at the moment the sun is setting for natives of the Philippines, during the period of late spring and early summer.

Alaska Farthest North.

"Uncle Sam's farthest north is Alaska, American 'land of the midnight sun' which, with its protected inland waterways, its age-old glaciers disgorging huge icebergs, and its fingerlike fiords, resembles Europe's peninsular Norway.

"Spanning almost half way around the world in latitude; the United States comes very nearly doing the same in longitude. For there is one United States possession, Samoa—the only inhabited one south of the Equator. Pago-Pago, in Samoa, is our naval sentinel in southern waters.

"Then there is isolated Guam, rendezvous of those giant electric serpents, the undersea cables, which guards, with its naval base, our ship lines to the faraway Philippines. Prosperous Porto Rico is another United States area within the boundaries of these farthest outposts of Uncle Sam's dominion.

"Now, note again the first sentence: During 5½ months of each year the sun never sets on the flag of the United States. If Marie Byrd Land in Antarctica were inhabited, and if there were anyone there to fly the United States flag continuously, the statement might be revised to read 9½ months instead of 5½ months."

Work on Great Aqueduct Starts Boom in Desert

Vidal, Calif.—Not only will Boulder dam construction bring new desert towns into being, but preparations for the building of the Colorado river aqueduct into the Los Angeles area have resulted in a boom in this small desert town, which in its palmiest days has boasted of only 3,500 population.

Vidal is situated in San Bernardino county, 40 miles south of Needles. At present it consists of a railroad station on the Phoenix branch of the Santa Fe, a hotel, post office, general store, the ever-present filling station, and a boarding house.

Many miles from any other center of population, steps already have been taken to care for the workers which the aqueduct construction will bring here.

The huge conduit must pass through the nearby Whipple mountains, and for several years crews will be required to tunnel through the rock formation.

The San Bernardino county planning commission already has approved an ambitious plan for the townsite, and workmen soon will lay domestic water mains, pave the main streets, and erect business buildings, in anticipation of the arrival of thousands of workmen next fall.

Goose Escapes From New Owner and Flies Home

Manteca, Calif.—Mrs. Charles Coe, resident here, has discovered that the domestic goose has a strong homing instinct. She bought a bird from Joe Vinet at Atlanta, five miles distant, took it home and penned it.

In the morning she found the goose gone. After a search she went to Vinet's farm. She had been there only a few minutes when the goose flew in and joined the other fowls.
